MOTOR CYCLIST'S DEATH.

SHOT AT LIFFEY STREET.

An inquest on Hyacinth D'Arcy (34), 115 Clanbrassil street, Dublin, who was shot at the Liffey street corner of Ormond quay on Friday night, was opened on Saturday at Mercer's Hospital, but was adjourned until 11 a.m. to-morrow for the attendance of essential witnesses.

Mr. Noyk, on behalf of the army, tendered his sympathy to the relatives of the deceased man. He said that the man had a motor cycle in Lower Liffey street on that night and was ordered not to move. He tried to start off, and a shot was fired over his head. He failed to halt, although called upon to do so several times, and more shots were fired. He (Mr. Noyk) would agree to an adjournment if desired.

Mr. James Brady, for the next-of-kin, said that the case was one that should be investigated. His instructions were that a serious error of judgment had been committed.

Dr. Roddy, house surgeon, said that death was due to shock and hemorrhage following a bullet wound in the left lung. The man died ten minutes after his admission to hospital.

LIFEBOAT SERVICE.

DAME MARGARET LLOYD GEORGE'S APPEAL.

A Criccieth message says:—On Saturday afternoon, in response to an invitation issued by Dame Margaret Lloyd George, a number of ladies attended a meeting at Bryn Awelon, when fifty of them from the district and the four lifeboat stations of Criccieth, Abersoch, Pwllheli, and Portdinllaen were enrolled members of the Guild established in connection with the Royal National Lifeboat Institution.

Dame Margaret Lloyd George, who presided, urged the claims of lifeboat service to greatly increased support. The annals of the heroic bravery of the men all round their coasts, and of women too, were a source of great pride, and she was sure that the women of South Carnarvonshire would do their part well in helping to raise the necessary funds.

Mr. Edgar Johnson, District Organising Secretary, explaining the object of the Ladies' Guild, mentioned that the Lifeboat Institution had 241 lifeboats round the coasts, 30 of which were motor boats. It was proposed to put motor boats on two of the lifeboat stations of South Carnarvonshire, which would cost £20,000.

Dame Margaret Lloyd George was appointed President of the Ladies' Guild.

STOPPED HEART RESTARTED.

The story of a heart which ceased to beat during an operation, but which was set going again after it had been massaged for fifty minutes, was told at an inquest at Southwark yesterday.

The inquest was on George Ernest Wilson, 19, of St. Mary's road, Leyton, whose heart, it was stated, ceased to beat while he was undergoing an operation at Guy's Hospital. Artificial respiration was applied, the body was opened, and the heart massaged for fifty minutes, when it began to beat again. Death, however, occurred fourteen hours later.

A verdict of death by misadventure was recorded.

In connection with the Catholic Congress at Munich at the end of the month there will be a demonstration in the Königsplatz, where the last review of the Einwohnerwehr was held. The participants will march in regular military formation, and Cardinal Faulhaber will celebrate Pontifical Mass in the open air and will afterwards deliver an address.

YACHTING.

SATURDAY'S RACING IN THE BAY.

A better description, perhaps, would be Saturday's drifting in the bay, for drifting the starters were in the different matches during most of the time, unless when they were battling with a strong flood tide. The truth is that we recaptured our lost summer on Saturday, one that has been missing for at least two months, and with it returned the drawbacks to summer weather in Dublin Bay, that is a light patchy breeze which comes and goes, but would please everybody, however, if the tide had not also to be taken into account.

DUBLIN BAY SAILING CLUB.

MIXED CLASSES HANDICAP for Club Prize. Usual course. Start 3.20 p.m.

Finish:— H. M. S.
Fodhla (2nd club), Mr. W. M. Curtis (scr.) 7 1 26
Geraldine (winner), Mr. W. McDowell (15 min.) 7 11 5
Punctilio, Messrs. Newsom and Stephens (scr.) gave up.
Darthula, Mr. W. B. B. Graham (1 min.) gave up.
Garavogue, Mr. L. Gower (13 min.) gave up.
Innisfallen, Messrs. Nesbitt and Weir (16 min.) gave up.

The weather was very hazy at starting time, and thickening every moment, while the breeze was light from E.S.E., giving a reach on the starboard tack out to the Bar buoy, it being clear to everyone that this time a compass course would have to be steered. Taking a risk at the line, Innisfallen and Fodhla were just safe at the start, Punctilio, Geraldine, Garavoge, Darthula, following them out, Garavoge holding the lee and Punctilio the weather berth. When a short distance away the fog hid them, and when next they were seen Punctilio was in front close hauled on the port tack and looking Sandycove Point. She went about to search for a wind which seemed more promising outside, and it did not pay, Fodhla, who held on, fetching Sandycove, while her rival 25-Footer was mixed up with the 21-Footers. But the real crux in the race was the rounding of Bullock mark in the teeth of a swift running flood tide. Eventually Fodhla did so with Geraldine next. Innisfallen "chucked" it; the others did their best, but could not get round the full course. Fodhla, in the meantime, followed by Geraldine, came into harbour to finish the round 12 min. before the time limit expired, and she did well in the better breeze met when going to Bullock the second time. But Geraldine was always close up to her, and at the finish the latter was an easy winner on the handicap.

HANDICAP FOR 17-FOOTERS for Club Prizes. Usual course. Start 3.25 p.m.

Finish:— H. M. S.
Mimosa (winner), Mr. J. B. Boyd (1 min.) 6 41 5
Nautilus (2nd prize) Mr. W. Gibson (2 min.) 6 42 12
Hera, Mr. O. Weekes (4 min.) 7 22 3
Eileen, Mr. J. E. Mills (scr.) gave up.

The experience of the 17-Footers was very similar in degree to that of the yachts in the previous race, they sailing the same course as regards the latter's first round. At the start the order was Nautilus, Mimosa, Eileen, Hera. Almost at once they were lost in the fog, and when the latter cleared sufficiently to see them they were close hauled for Bullock, and with little more way on them than sufficed to stem the flood tide. Eileen and Nautilus then were the apparent leaders, and here again the struggle to get round Bullock mark was a matter of patient and tireless endeavour. During the attempt Eileen fouled Mimosa and at once gave up.

CLASS IV.—By mutual consent on the final round the Wag Race fell through. There were four in it—the start was Tomboy, Blue Bird, Phyllis, Barbara, and eventually they beat down to Bullock and ran home, Barbara leading. But when they started on the final round, they found the flood tide too much for them, and after trying all they could all gave up.

SEAPOINT BOAT CLUB.

The boats competing in the club matches for marks seemed to hold a breeze—from E. to E.S.E.—most of the time and to be almost always sailing. The winners in each event, Alethea in Class I., and Petrel in Class II. seemed to revel in the light weather.

CLASS I.—Handicap for marks. No. 2 course. Start 3.45.

Finish:— H. M. S.
Alethea (winner), Messrs. O'Hanlon and Morrin (1½ min.) 4 59 2
Sho Shi (2nd), Mr. F. P. Douglas (3 min) 5 4 57
Mercia III. (3rd) Mr. W. J. Smalldridge (scr.) 5 9 5
Pixie, Mr. F. E. Bermingham (8 min.) 5 27 [illegible]

Alethea got the start and led throughout.

CLASS II.—Handicap for marks. No. 2 course. Start 3.55.

Finish:— H. M. S.
Petrel (winner), Mr. R. E. Bowen (½ min.) 5 10 48
Arline (2nd), Mr. A. S. G. Loxton (3 min.) 5 23 6
Green, Messrs. Hartnell and McGoogan (scr.) 5 25 15
Nautilus (3rd), Mr. F. P. Cantwell 3½ min.) 5 25 29
Unona (4th), Mr. H. M. Odbert (4 min.) 5 28 15
Willie, Messrs. Brown and Scott (4 min.) 5 32 51
Elsie, Mr. K. Stokes (5½ min.) 5 32 53
Brunette, Mr. W. R. Willis (10 min.) gave up.

R.A.Y.C. CHANNEL MATCH.

Tigris (Mr. N. Drury) won the Channel match, which was started at 8.35 a.m. from Kingstown on Friday, she getting the gun at Holyhead shortly after 6 p.m., and finishing about 20 minutes ahead of Kismet (Mr. F. St. J. Worrall), to whom she was conceding 14 minutes.

Full light weather canvas was carried throughout. Tigris led in the light southerly breeze out of the Bay, the Kish being passed about 9.8 a.m. Of the two, Tigris held the more southerly course. Rain was met with, but was left behind about 10 o'clock, and from that on both yachts had a splendid sail over the ebb tide, carrying the breeze until about 2.30, when it fell light, and eventually dropped away to a flat calm. By that time they were a good 33 miles from the Kish. The calm lasted for about two hours. About 4.30 a light N.E. air was picked up, which soon strengthened into a nice sailing breeze, bringing them both comfortably into Holyhead, Kismet fetching the breakwater at 6.30 p.m. It was a very pleasant passage, with warm sunshine during most of the time.

There was a fair gathering of yachts at Holyhead yesterday, the most noticeable being the fine ketch Merrymaid. Both Faith (Sir Thomas Myles) and Grisceida (Dr. Lane Joyne), which had left Kingstown on Saturday forenoon for a week-end cruise, were included in the number. Tigris and Kismet, the former flying two winning flags, were taking a rest in the sun. A conspicuous little craft was a 6 or 8 metre yacht with Marconi mast pur sang. A promise of a larger gathering for the Royal Dee Y.C. regatta to-day was forthcoming in the arrival of two more sail craft about 2 p.m. from the North Welsh coast.

The return Channel match of the R.A.Y.C. will start from Holyhead for Kingstown early to-morrow morning.

HOWTH SAILING CLUB.

THE LAMBAY RACES.

In one way—that is, in the number of starters—this season's races round Lambay Island were a great success; but, in another, and that the all-important matter of the weather, the conditions on Saturday left much to be desired. The truth is there was far too little wind for this long course—from Howth Harbour, round Lambay Island, leaving Ireland's Eye to starboard and Lambay to port, a distance of about 15 miles. A breeze is necessary for it to do this race justice, and, when one comes to think of it, a 15 miles course for small craft of the size of 17-footers sailed in light airs is a bit of high trying.

However, the Howth Corinthians are not easily deterred, but when the Handicapping Committee met at one o'clock to determine the allowances for the Cruisers Race the prospect was one calculated to dishearten them and the yachts concerned. At the time nothing but the lightest of easterly airs prevailed, and of a chance of more wind coming there was none. Besides, the competitors would have the tide against them in each direction, and clearly the result of the race depended upon luck more than anything else. The handicap made the 21-footers, Oola and Maureen (scr.) allow Ainmara 2 mins., Togo 6 mins., Sheila II. 8 mins., Eithne 10 mins., Marguerite 12 mins., Sheila I. 20 mins., and Whale 40 mins.

At 2.30 p.m. the Cruisers were sent away, and five minutes later the 17-Footers followed them. The starts were quite good, but once past Ireland's Eye patches of calm were met, and further on, when off the nose of Lambay, the leading craft were held up from a like cause, this allowing the tailed off division almost to close up. From here to the Tayleur Perch spinnakers were carried, and from thence home it was a reach, the breeze coming in airs of varying strength. Details:—

WICKLOW REGATTA—TO-DAY.

If all the yachts and sail boats which started yesterday for Wicklow manage to reach that port there will be quite an old-fashioned assemblage of craft at this favourite Bank Holiday fixture. If anything, however, the weather was too fine and the breeze too much on the light side, and the passage South, therefore, promised to be a lengthy one. One thing, however, is certain, and that is the Wicklow Regatta seems to have recovered its old popularity, and that it will be a sporting affair there is not a shadow of doubt.

ROYAL SOUTHERN Y.C. REGATTA.

There was very good light-weather sailing on Saturday, at Calshot, when the Regatta of this club took place.

CRICKET.

LEINSTER V. PHOENIX.

HOME TEAM IN STRONG POSITION.

With splendid weather favouring the opening day of this match on Saturday, there was a very large attendance, who witnessed a splendid day's cricket at Rathmines. Though neither club was quite at full strength, two very strong teams had been got together, and, as a result of the day's play, Leinster left off in a very strong position, being 220 runs on with only three of their opponents' wickets to fall. The home club had the better of the conditions, as they got first innings on a splendid wicket, while when Phoenix were batting in the evening a nasty haze hung over the ground for some time, though it cleared away in the last half-hour.

Leinster, who were batting three hours and a quarter for 294, made a very bad start, G. N. Kelly dismissing Heaslip with the first ball of the match, while in his third over he got rid of Kempster with only five runs on the board, both batsmen playing inside the ball. R. H. Lambert and Green made a great recovery, however, bringing the score to 78, when Green was given caught behind the wicket, having played fine cricket for an hour for 42 without giving a chance, and hitting 6 fours, principally fine strokes between point and cover. On Bryans joining Lambert an even more remunerative partnership was struck up, the pair adding 101, when Lambert was thrown out by Carr following a grand bit of fielding at cover-point. The Leinster captain had been in for two hours, and his 64 was worth double, as it fairly took the sting out of the bowling. He never gave the semblance of a chance, and hit ten boundaries. Bryans left soon after for a dashing 63, for which he had been batting 70 minutes, his principal scoring strokes being 8 fours and 2 threes. Four more of the side added useful double figures, Miles falling another victim to Carr's brilliancy, while Hinton, who was last out, knocked up 38 in twenty-five minutes, including 2 sixes and 4 fours.

In the hour and ten minutes that remained for play Phoenix lost 7 wickets for 74, Gregson-Ellis getting in front to a straight one from Lambert with the score at 14, while with the score at 23 Kidd and Carr left, the former being out to a clever catch at mid-off by Green off Lambert. Then Carr was beaten by Heaslip with a ball that came off the pitch slower than expected. A. P. Kelly (20) tried to stop the rot, but was snapped behind the wicket cleverly by Milling off Heaslip. Lambert next beat Caldbeck with one that nipped back quickly, and G. N. Kelly was bowled by Heaslip with a ball that kept low. Buttanshaw got himself out following a ball from Heaslip wide on the off, and presented Milling with an easy chance. Play will be resumed to-day at 11 a.m. Score:—

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE V. PEMBROKE.

The bowlers completely held the upper hand yesterday at Terenure, where Pembroke defeated University College by 57 runs. The College, who batted first, fared disastrously against the bowling of Murphy and Bonass, and in fifty minutes were dismissed for 32 runs, Moran's 15 being the only double figure contribution. Murphy bowled splendidly, and had the remarkable analysis of 7 wickets for 12, while Bonass secured the remaining 3 for 19 runs. McCarthy and Aylward, who opened for Pembroke, passed the home total before being separated, but subsequently matters went none too well for the visitors, and the innings closed for 89. McCarthy batted stylishly for 39, while Pickeman made 21, and Aylward 13. Blanc bowled in fine form for University College, securing 5 wickets for 13. J. M. Donovan had 2 for 15, and R. L. COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

SURREY V. NOTTS.

Notts made an extremely good start in their annual bank holiday match with Surrey at the Oval on Saturday. On a pitch that, soft on top, always gave the bowlers some assistance, the ball at times rising very awkwardly, they put together in four hours and forty minutes the very useful total of 338. Against this Surrey scored 27 without loss in the last 25 minutes of the day, and so have arrears of 311, the task of knocking up which may be a heavy one, considering that their batting is weakened by the absence of Hobbs, who is indisposed. The Notts' batting was curiously consistent, it being only towards the close of the innings that Lee made most of his runs to carry off the chief honours of the day. At the same time it must be said that little luck came the way of Surrey in the field, several brilliant attempts at catches just failing, and three men (G. Gunn, Payton, and Lee) being missed. At the outset Notts appeared likely to be dismissed for a much smaller total, for the earlier batsmen found run-getting a difficult matter against good length bowling, and despite an opening partnership of 40 between G. Gunn and Whysall, and a few good hits by Carr, half the side were out for 150. A series of very useful partnerships followed, however, Payton, Oates, and Barratt rendering Lee such splendid assistance in stands of 47, 81, and 67 respectively that the last five wickets added a further 188 runs. For a man who has been out of the team for some time, Lee played a great game. Scoring cleverly all round the wicket by a variety of strokes, he never appeared in trouble during a stay of two hours and five minutes, making no mistake, apart from a difficult chance to Baldwin in the long field when 61. He hit 10 fours during a masterly display, and was still undefeated at the close of the innings. Score:—

LANCASHIRE V. YORKSHIRE.

In an intensely keen struggle at Old Trafford on Saturday, 16 wickets fell for 226 runs, Yorkshire leaving off 10 runs behind with four wickets to fall. Not one batsman did himself full justice, and every trusted run-getter failed ignominiously, but the condition of the pitch changed very little, and the afternoon turned dull, after a sunny morning. The bowlers held the upper hand throughout. Dismissed for 118, though their innings took three hours and twenty minutes, Lancashire appeared a beaten side, but Yorkshire, who are 13 points better off at the top of the championship table, could not claim any distinct advantage, and actually lost three men for 13 runs. Sutcliffe and Rhodes put on 60 in fifty minutes by the fastest scoring of the day. Robinson and Macaulay made 29 without being separated, and so improved the prospects of Yorkshire considerably. Norbury managed to make the ball go with some pace off the pitch, and to kick occasionally, dismissing Sutcliffe and Rhodes in consecutive overs. He did splendid service, and altogether Lancashire tried very hard to atone for their side's poor scoring. Most certainly Lancashire failed to use their opportunities of batting first. Makepeace and Hallows played well enough while they remained on the defensive, but Macaulay, tried at 33, got a soft second ball, and the batsmen seemed to lose their heads. Makepeace and Parkin ran themselves out stupidly. Barnes played a game quite foreign to his nature, and took seventy minutes to score eight out of 25, only 10 coming in half an hour after lunch, and he was eventually bowled round his leg, after hitting Kilner to the boundary. E. Tyldesley, ninth out at 111, took two hours and forty-five minutes over his 45. The attendance reached 20,000. Score:—

SUSSEX V. MIDDLESEX.

There was a big ring of spectators at Brighton, some 4,000 witnessing the cricket after lunch. Up to this point the play had been of an extraordinary nature, for although Middlesex won the toss and went in on a good wicket, they fared so disastrously that they actually lost five batsmen for 20 runs. Two went at 7, another at 8, four for 14, and the fifth at 20. Of this number, Lee was occupied an hour and a quarter in making 9. Twining and Stevens were together at lunch with the score 26 for 5. This is a remarkable instance of low scoring in a first-class game for ninety minutes uninterrupted play up to lunch. Thanks largely to Stevens the position was considerably improved after lunch. The sixth partnership realised 20, and Skeet helped Stevens to put on 45 for the seventh wicket, Stevens was batting altogether an hour and three-quarters for an invaluable 59, which included six fours. The last two wickets went for 18, Middlesex being out in three hours and twenty minutes. Tate's clever bowling secured him six wickets for only 30 runs. Sussex, who had two hours' batting, lost two wickets for 28, but then Bowley and Cook made a fine stand, Cook hitting brilliantly and scoring 73 out of 98 added for the third wicket in an hour. His figures included one six and ten fours. Bowley reached 50 in one hour and fifty minutes. Score:—

KENT V. HAMPSHIRE.

Canterbury's Seventy-seventh Festival opened on Saturday with the return game between Kent and Hampshire awarded to Frank Woolley as a benefit. The programme of the week also includes Kent v. Middlesex. Most interesting cricket marked the first day. Rain during the few previous days had left the pitch considerably affected, and all day long, against very skilful bowling, the batsmen had to fight desperately hard for runs. Indeed, when in half an hour two wickets fell for 16 runs, the question arose whether Tennyson had acted wisely in taking first innings, so much were Woolley and Freeman doing with the ball. Still, with the weather outlook again uncertain, he could not have acted otherwise, and in the end the course pursued was justified. Day and Mead, playing excellent watchful cricket against an awkward attack, stayed eighty-five minutes together to add 65 runs, Mead withstanding the Kent bowlers for two hours and forty minutes and being sixth out at 150. He batted with splendid skill and judgment throughout, giving no chance, and while scoring chiefly on the leg side, made other fine strokes. After Mead left there came an excellent stand by Aird and Altham, who put on 67 in seventy minutes. Both batted in attractive fashion. Altogether, the Hants innings lasted four hours and three-quarters. The weather turned very pleasant, and 8,000 spectators assembled. Score:—

WARWICKSHIRE v. DERBYSHIRE.

The feature of Derbyshire's innings at Edgbaston was a fine display by Carter, who was mainly instrumental in checking the success of the Warwickshire bowlers, and placing his side in something like a respectable position. Before he went in, Calthorpe and Baynton had carried all before them, seven wickets being down for 80. Four batsmen were out before the interval for only 43, and how completely the bowlers were masters of the situation may be gathered from the fact that Morton took 50 minutes to get 16, while Hutchinson batted 40 minutes for four. The later batsmen had the advantage of the wicket, which was rapidly recovering. Jackson (18) and Carter were the first pair to make a stand, putting on 33 in an hour for the seventh wicket. Carter found another useful partner in Tomlinson, and the brightest cricket of the innings was seen while this pair were together. They added 49 in 40 minutes. Warwickshire had under an hour's batting, and made a capital start, Smith (not out 28), and Fiddian-Green (not out 18) scoring 49. Score:—

Derbyshire 175
Warwickshire (no wicket) 49

NORTHANTS v. LEICESTERSHIRE.

Leicestershire on Saturday batted nearly five hours and compiled 240, and Northamptonshire in the last quarter of an hour made 14 without loss. Winning the toss and going in on a soft wicket, Leicestershire started in very sedate fashion, two hours being occupied before lunch in scoring 81 for the loss of Lord (26), who was bowled at 55. Fowke (43), second out at 109, batted two hours and a half, and Astill (27), who left at 112, was in an hour and a quarter. With the wicket drying, the ball at times got up awkwardly, and King had one of his finger nails forced back by a rising delivery from Wardlin, and had to retire for an hour. Sharp batted in attractive fashion for 80, but could not find a partner to stay until Sidwell (23) went in at the fall of the fifth wicket, and then the Leicestershire stumper gave such excellent support that 62 were put on in 55 minutes. Clark took the last four Leicestershire wickets for 16 runs in 29 balls, and brought the innings to a rapid conclusion. Northamptonshire are captained by C. A. T. Vials, who has not played County cricket since 1914. Score:—

Leicestershire 240
Northamptonshire (no wicket) 14

GLOUCESTERSHIRE v. SOMERSET.

Bad light at a quarter to five o'clock followed by rain curtailed the play in this match at Bristol, in which Somerset were represented by the same side that has played through the Western festival, while Gloucester were at full strength and had the assistance once more of C. L. Townsend, who usually participates in this annual match. Foster Robinson, who has not played for two months, returned to the captaincy of the side, and winning the toss put Somerset in, possibly anticipating the sun, which refused to come through the clouds. One hundred runs were scored in the first two hours, and the second hundred in 95 minutes. Young batted two hours and 40 minutes for 50, which included eight fours, but he was often beaten without being bowled. MacBryan's 45, which included three fours, were scored without fault in an hour and 40 minutes, and Lyon pleased the crowd with his 33, scored in 35 minutes, with a six off a no-ball from Parker, and five fours. Gloucestershire's fielding left little room for complaint, and it was Smith, coupled with fine length bowling by Dennett and Mills in particular, that restrained Lowry, who has lately acquired the habit of making runs in a hurry and is not out with 33. Gloucestershire have won all five matches played between the Western Counties since the war. Score:—

Somerset (4 wickets) 201
Gloucester

WORCESTERSHIRE v. ESSEX.

The wicket at Worcester on Saturday gave the bowlers considerable assistance, and good progress was made with the game. The home side had Maurice Foster, and the brothers Higgins for Crawley, Jagger and Root, and in the Essex eleven P. E. Morris, Joy, Freeman, and Smith appeared for Hubert Ashton, Louden, Franklin, and O'Connor. The visitors lost Treglown at 17, while at 35 Russell (24) was brilliantly taken at square leg by H. L. Higgins, who took a fast travelling ball with the right hand. C. T. Ashton (14), and Freeman brought up the 50 in an hour, but the Cantab was caught at mid-on at 53, and afterwards the batting was very unreliable. Freeman, who was fifth out at 87, stayed nearly two hours for 19, and the innings closed for 115, Pearson taking five wickets at a cost of 9 runs apiece. Worcestershire, even allowing for the Essex bowlers receiving help from the pitch, gave a woeful exhibition, losing half their wickets for 20, while the sixth fell at 27. Then came some spirited hitting by Maurice Foster (38), which led to 40 being added for the seventh partnership, but the last three wickets went down for 2 runs, so that Essex had a lead of 44. Douglas had six wickets for 6 runs each. Essex in the last half hour scored 40 without loss, and now possess a lead of 84. Score:—

GAELIC ATHLETIC PASTIMES.

(BY PAT'O.)

The Dublin Senior League ties attracted a fair company of spectators to Croke Park yesterday, when two football games were set for decision. Parnells got another easy brace of points through Keating's inability to field a team. Between M'Cracken's and St. Mary's—present Leinster champions—a right good exhibition resulted. M'Cracken's fielded a strong side, but St. Mary's were always their masters. Settling down to steady football, the wearers of the black and white were early in attack. Nugent opened their scoring with a clever point. Walsh, Shanahan, Kearns, and Donnelly were hard workers for the M'Cracken's, but their forwards sent the ball everywhere but between the posts.

Bradshaw was, as usual, a tower of strength in the St. Mary's back line, and punted long balls into the area. Here Toole and Byrne were efficient marksmen, and raised two green flags, the latter goal being the result of a particularly clever movement. Kearns, on the M'Cracken's side, got well placed near the interval, and notched a fast point for his side's only score.

St. Mary's gave a stylish display in the second half. They combined well, and quite demoralised the opposing defence. Donnelly scored for M'Cracken's nearing the end, but the champions were comfortable winners of a clean, bright game. Final score:—

St. Mary's—2 goals, 6 points.
M'Cracken's—2 points.

Seven-a-side knock-out matches in the gold medal tournament at St. James's Park have been proceeding up Dolphin's Barn way all through the week at the fête in aid of the North William street Orphanage. Great interest was centred in the final stages yesterday evening, fully 2,000 spectators witnessing good football.

St. Mary's (Sandyford), a junior grade group, had a strong following, and surprised some of the older and better-known combinations. At the end of twenty minutes M'Cracken's were level at 4 points each, but Gill, a speedy forward, got the winning score through in the extension.

O'Toole's had an easy victory over St. Paul's in the other semi, and it was eight o'clock before they lined up for the final tussle against St. Mary's. Having men of all Ireland reputation like O'Reilly and Synnott in their seven, the North side team were expected to come through. St. Mary's were again quite a surprise packet. Fielding well, and using shoulder-high hand passing with good effect, they broke down O'Toole's defence, and turned over well in front. Gill was again prominent and his low ground goal five minutes from the end made the game safe. From a free, O'Reilly shot a point for the O'Toole's—their only score—and the smart juniors from the suburbs had an enthusiastic reception at the final whistle.

The games were the outstanding feature in a very successful fête.

The United Kingdom and Continental Freight Conferences in New York confirm the report that the rates for sugar, flour, lubricants, and oils will be kept open until the end of October in order to meet competition.

THE MODES OF TO-MORROW.

SECRETS OF PARIS REVEALED.

The Paris autumn openings are always the most important events in the world of fashion. This year they have been awaited with particular interest; for two questions to which only these collections could give authoritative answers have been uppermost in the minds of all smart women. Are the new fashions going to be entirely revolutionary and how far down will the new skirts really go?

These famous dress parades are the most delicious affairs imaginable. Amid little involuntary cries of admiration and gasps of surprise each lovely mannequin appears in a creation hitherto undreamed of, a material of exquisite novelty made in a style that is strangely familiar, but entirely baffling. There are plenty of changes to be noted behind the doors of the great salons, plenty of novelty in details, but the general line, the silhouette on which the models are based has not altered so much that your favourite gowns need be discarded.

EVENING GOWNS.

The evening gown continues to serve two masters when it comes to silhouettes. There are endless and delightful possibilities in the combination of airy tulles and shining tissue for frocks of the bouffant persuasion, while for the mere classic designs gorgeous brocades and supple crêpes have been recruited with excellent results.

We find that most models, and particularly dancing frocks, have as their direct inspiration, the picturesque charm of Spain. One sees this in particular, in the evening gowns that billow in ripples of graceful fulness from a rather snug waist-line. Because the uncompromisingly long, very wide skirt is difficult to wear successfully, it has, in almost every instance, a hem line arranged so that if the wearer has worthily slender ankles they may not be lost of altogether.

It seems as if our ballrooms will be filled with provocative Spanish senoritas this winter, while at formal dinners ladies classically Greek in silhouette will preside. Brilliant touches of colour will relieve the sombre blackness of the popular evening gown and from the decorative point of view silver, rather than gold, is going to be the coin of the fashion realm.

METAL BELTS.

It is noticeable how many metal or steel belts are worn with simple street frocks, whether they be of wool, velvet or silk, while sleeves continue in colour, shape and design as amusing as ever.

The situation, in short, in the dress-making world, is that all the houses are seeking to introduce models which, while

This smart bathing costume resembles, in some respects, the dresses worn in the ballroom last year. It is true that the skirt is a trifle shorter than our mondaines wore, but the corsage is, perhaps, even less décolleté. It has been fashioned in black crêpe, having a design of baskets and flowers. The "culottes" under the little-gathered skirt are of white washing silk. The black rubberised cap, embroidered in roses and leaves, is quite charming.

they will not be contrary to the present desire for simplicity will allow them to show a little more of that ingenuity in the handling of materials which is the evidence of their mastery as designers.

GOSSIP FROM PARIS.

CITY CROWDED WITH VISITORS.

PARIS, August 4.

It is a common joke among Parisians that in summer Paris no longer belongs to the Parisians, but to the foreigner. Sometimes the joke is varied to the extent of alleging that the city belongs to the British and Americans, and, to judge by the predominance of the English language in the babel which prevails on the Boulevards just now, there might be some truth in the assertion. English, however, is not the only tongue spoken, and yesterday, at one time, English, Spanish, French, Italian, Norwegian, Danish, and Dutch were all being spoken near the Madelaine together, this being the point-de-départ of the various motor chars-à-bancs that run from Paris to the environs. To hear German is no unusual thing, for students at this time of the year are busily learning the language.

WOMEN TRAVELLERS.

The fashions of this year are kind to women travellers, what with brief and supple corset-belts, three-in-one under garments, collarless, sleeveless, waistless gowns, which slip on without any fastening or trouble, and just as surely simplify the packing problem; capes and Spanish shawls, which also fold up as easily and flatly as a handkerchief; and all sorts of different and easily detachable millinery trimmings, and tunics and panels, and so forth, ready to give an infinite variety to one's hat or dress.

Trunks, too, have reached the pitch of perfection, with their nest of drawers, boot-bags, and hat boxes, and a hanging wardrobe into the bargain. Wherever you want to go to—it's there. Ocean, mountains, valley deserts, land with all sorts of water, and how nice to go off and live—for a time—on some tropical desert, bare-footed, with the minimum of clothes—what utter bliss!

In making a choice of clothes for your summer trip, it will be well for you to bear in mind that the beautiful pinks and purples of fuchsia blossoms are still to be the leading colour favourites of the autumn season, and, both separately and in beautifully-blended contrast, will be used for day and evening dresses, cloaks, hats, and trimmings of all kinds.

Fuchsia-coloured duveteens are, perhaps, specially lovely, while a new net, in which silk and artificial silk are deftly interwoven, is fascinating beyond words in its ever-changing subtleties of pink and purple.

Incidentally, this net is also obtainable now in all sorts of metallic effects, and being comparatively economical, absolutely supple, and guaranteed not to tarnish, it will be treasure-trove to any woman who wants a beautiful evening gown, but in particular to all who travel, as it is so easy to pack, and does not ruffle or crease.

GINGER BROWN.

As a change, however, for all the brilliance, there will be the new ginger-brown—a very smart, and also a very becoming, colour—which is at its best in serges and gabardines, and crêpe-de-chines. Indeed, all the range of tones, from écru to brown, will be favoured, and, of course, there will always be black to fall back upon when in doubt. A suit for the traveller who hates to be bothered with all that endless procession of washing blouses, that the average tailored suit demands, is a 3-piece tailleur of ginger-brown kasha and écru crêpe-de-chine, with chain-stitched embroidery in two shades of ginger. The hat to wear with it is a little rolled toque of ginger soft leather. It has been chosen because it is easy to keep on, to keep clean, and to pack when necessary.

Something rather different and daring for the woman who likes informality and comfort is a light-weight homespun suit of burnt orange, with a touch of black at the pocket edges. There is that decidedly pinched-in waist-line that so many new suits affect, and, to be still more individual, it is finished off with a most astonishing orange-lacquered boutonnière, warranted to distract any customs officer's attention from one's luggage.

BALDOYLE.

TO-DAY'S PROSPECTS.

Those who elect to spend the holiday at popular Baldoyle will be well catered for, the programme, as usual, being most attractive, and a capital afternoon's sport seems assured. The course is in splendid order, and, judging by the number of horses under orders to meet their engagements, strong fields will contest the half-dozen events, so that all that is essential to render the reunion highly enjoyable is fine weather. A couple of new turnstiles have been erected, and those should obviate congestion at the entrances. Chief interest will centre in the Baldoyle Foal Stakes, in which several smart performers are engaged, and there is material for a fine race, for the winner of which I shall rely on

SANDOWN PARK.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

At the moment of writing this message from the Southern flat racing scene of action rain simply is tumbling down. It is, indeed, a melancholy first August Sunday, and the weather prospects for Monday appear dismal in the extreme. It is a great pity, for the Sandown executive have issued an attractive programme for the solitary Bank Holiday meeting of the whole year, the other festive gatherings being appropriated by either Kempton or Hurst Park. The going cannot be anything else except soft, and, despite the clashing with Birmingham and Ripon, the sizes of the fields will probably be larger at Esher than elsewhere. Two £500 events figure upon the card, and of these the North Surrey Handicap takes precedence, since the race is over a distance of ground. Count Ross likes the course, and has a fine chance. On his hurdle race running with Trespasser and on the Liverpool form he should beat London Pride. Selections are as follow:—

Selling Plate—Playful.
Maiden T.Y.O. Plate—Perhaps.
North Surrey Handicap—Bhuidonach.
Holiday Plate—Volexter.
Lammas Plate—Rock Fire.
Lubbock Handicap—Morning Light.
Hermitage Plate—Brownstown.

1.30—A SELLING HIGH-WEIGHT HANDICAP PLATE of 200 sovs. Second 5 sovs. One mile and a quarter.

LEWES.

SATURDAY'S RETURN.

AIR BALLOON WINS THE CHIEF EVENT.

There was a fine wind-up to what has been a successful fortnight at Lewes on Saturday, with much more exhilarating sport than is usually seen here. An instance of the necessity of having all the starting posts connected by telephone with the weighing room was provided in the Maiden Two-Year-Old Stakes. One of the numbers displayed as a starter was that of Aquatic, but after being saddled it was found that he had a temperature, and, by permission of the Stewards, he was withdrawn. The only means of communicating this to Captain Allison at the gate was by despatching a police officer on foot for half the distance, after which a mounted officer took up the relay. This caused a tedious, but, in the circumstances, unavoidable, delay. The race was won in a canter by Duteous, an Irish-bred filly, whose first race in England it was, though she had twice finished second at the Curragh, since when she changed ownership. She is a particuarly good-looking youngster, by Happy Warrior, and evidently as speedy as she is good-looking.

Troika had gained an unenviable reputation as a stopper, for on no fewer than seven previous occasions he had finished either second or third; but in the Welter Handicap he had matters his own way, and, though inclined to stop in the last furlong, Gray kept him going just long enough to resist the challenge of Fiddleback.

Home Fire was expected to supplement the earlier success of the Scala colt in Sir Malcolm McAlpine's colours in the Hamsey Welter, but the weight told and he was unplaced, Major Doyle on Joust getting the best of a pretty finish with Mr. Fred. Brown on Gentleman.

Alec Taylor was responsible for both Air Balloon and Manton in the Lewes Handicap, but it was obvious that the stable hopes rested on the first-named. He was not nearly in such demand as the London Cup winner, Vindictive, but the latter gave an amazingly weak display, dropping back last as soon as the straight was reached. Air Balloon had to be hard ridden for the last mile, but he responded to Childs splendidly, and, getting on terms with Ardavon a furlong from home, scored very cleverly. He is one of the Manton lot entered in the Cesarewitch, and it will be interesting to see what weight is given this great stayer.

Poole's stable scored a further success with the Lincolnshire and "City" winner, Royal Bucks, in the Southdown Welter.

When the field settled down, Warrior set a fine pace to Solace and Vindictive, these being clear of Air Balloon and Ardavon, and Manton going on last. BIRMINGHAM.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND FANCIES.

Bank Holiday sport in the Midlands is likely to meet with some opposition from the elements, which have turned out very wet in the Birmingham district. The unavoidable clashing with fixtures both North and South will leave the bulk of the financial business to-day in the hands of the professionals, and a certain amount of difficulty will be experienced with regard to an adequate supply of efficient riders; but I am anticipating quite an average number of competitors, especially on the second day. Of the two chief events on to-day's card competition for the Warkickshire Breeders' Stakes may not be very extensive, and Witty is likely, by what I hear, to find a doughty opponent in Scutter, but a later arrival from Newmarket may dispose of the pair of them. We ought to witness an interesting race for the Holiday Three-Year-Old Handicap, which has an open appearance. Lord of Burghley has come on from Brighton, and he ought to run well here. Selections:—

Monday Selling Plate—Night Watchman.
Aston Selling Plate—Pandarus.
Warwickshire Foal Plate—Witty.
Holiday Handicap—Lord of Burghley.
Ruckley Handicap—Vaddy.
Tamworth Plate—Dark Fox.

PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

There is every prospect of a very successful meeting here for Bank Holiday enthusiasts, and, with the weather conditions remaining favourable, there will be a big crowd present each day. Chief interest on the opening afternoon will be centred in the Great St. Wilfred Handicap, which will attract a good field, inclusive of Grey Monk and Greta Bridge (both previous winners over the course), Baalbeck, Star of Blyth, Cornet of Horse, and Rock Drill. Through the running in the race at Catterick won by Snow Crest, the last-named appears over-weighted against Star of Blyth and Greta Bridge, and as Lord Burnley's filly finished in front of Greta Bridge then on the same terms, she should again account for Mr. Bell Irving's four-year-old. In four races since scoring here in the Spring, Grey Monk has failed. He then won easily over a mile with 8lb. more. Mr. Clare Vyner, his owner, has close local ties with Ripon, and his colours are frequently seen to the fore here; but at the weights I prefer Star of Blyth, with Grey Monk and Cornet of Horse as chief dangers. For the Fishergreen Two-Year-Old Plate Tittenhurst has come on from Newmarket, and, in view of his good second to Wagtail colt last week, should win in this company. Selections:—

Sharrow Plate—Galloping Slav or Prevail.
Fishergreen Plate—Tittenhurst.
Yorkshire Welter—Captain Renwick's selected.
St. Wilfred Handicap—Star of Blyth.
Bondgate Handicap—Stockwood.

ST. ANDREWS TOURNAMENT.

There are many well-known players in the record "field" of 165 who will take part in the opening day's play of the tournament promoted by the St. Andrews Town Council, to be held this week, beginning on Wednesday, on the Eden Course, St. Andrews. James Caven (Cochrane Castle), who was the runner-up in the recent British Amateur Championship, was the winner last year, but he will not defend his title, he being one of the members of the British International team journeying to America. R. H. de Montmorency and Alex. Armour are other notable absentees, but amongst the entrants are—G. C. Manford, Walter Blackwell, W. A. Sievwright, A. C. Muirhead, R. M. Finlay, and J. D. Little. On the first day a 36 holes stroke competition will be played for handicap prizes and sixteen qualifying places in subsequent match play, the players with the lowest scratch scores qualifying for these.

CARRICKMINES.—To-day—Sweepstake: men's singles, 18 holes, by strokes; open to visitors playing with members.

SUNDAY GOLF AT PORTRUSH.

The Royal Portrush Golf Club on Saturday elected Mr. Daniel McLaughlin captain, in succession to Mr. J. W. Russell. Rev. J. S. Pyper had a motion to add to Rule 32, after "Golf will not be played on Sundays," the words from a former rule, "No future motion either to open the bar or billiard room or links for play on Sundays, or to alter Rule 32, shall be passed unless by a majority of two-thirds of those present and voting at such meeting." The Chairman held the motion out of order, holding that a unanimous vote at a special general meeting establishing proxy voting made the latter a cardinal principle of the club. Deleting the word "present" would make the motion acceptable. Rev. Mr. Pyper withdrew his motion, and quoted the opinion of the late Lord Macnaghten, that the old rule was still binding and operative, and could not be repealed unless by a two-thirds majority.

The Rev. Dr. Lowe, ex-Moderator of the General Assembly, supported the contention that the old rule had not been legally repealed.

POLO.

ALL-IRELAND CLUB.

A fairly large crowd witnessed a six-chukkar match between sides called Liffey Bank and Sans Souci at the A.I.P.C., Phœnix Park, on Saturday afternoon. The ground was in grand order, and play throughout was fast. For the first few periods there was not much between them, but subsequently Liffey Bank took command of the game, and rode out easy winners by 5 goals to 1.

Captain Lingard Goulding, who will captain the A.I.P.C. team in America at the end of the month, was umpire for the match. He left for England by the night mail, and hopes to get a few days' polo in the Rugby tournament before going to America.

LIFFEY BANK (5) v. SAN SOUCI (1).

Sans Souci were the first to attack, but Mr. Shackleton eased the pressure, and let Mr. Daly away, and the latter placed nicely for Mr. Leonard to hit through. Liffey Bank got down again from the throw-in, but the ball was sent wide. Hard riding was the order in the second chukkar. Liffey Bank went near scoring in the first few minutes, and then the others got down for Mr. Johnston to equalise. Mr. Tyrrell saved Sans Souci's goal before the change. Shortly after the start of the third period Mr. Leonard put Liffey Bank into the lead, but the side missed a few chances before the finish. Mr. H. O'Reilly hit a good goal for the leaders in the fourth chukkar, while in the fifth Liffey Bank again held the upper hand, but the ball had gone before they added to their score. Sans Souci played hard in the last chukkar, but they were thrown back time after time, and near the finish their defence was beaten for the fifth time. Teams:—

Liffey Bank—Mr. P. J. Leonard, Mr. James Daly, Mr. H. O'Reilly, and Mr. J. W. Shackleton (back).

Sans Souci—Capt. B. Daly, Mr. B. O'Reilly, Mr. Johnston, and Mr. T. P. Tyrrell (back).

Umpire—Capt. Lingard Goulding.

To-morrow—Practice at 3.30.

BOXING.

CONTEST AT THE RING.

UNUSUAL DECISION.

There was a curious ending to a 15-round contest at the Ring, Blackfriars, on Saturday, between Billy Fry (Taylorstown) and Colin McLachlan (America). Fry being disqualified owing to the action of his seconds in throwing water over him when he was down and obviously in a bad way. McLachlan did most of the leading for twelve rounds, then he had Fry in distress and down, and then it was that the incident referred to occurred.

ANOTHER WIN FOR BENNY LEONARD.

Benny Leonard to-day defeated Hammer, of Chicago, on points in a ten rounds bout. The champion, who was a strong favourite, fought cautiously, as he was handicapped by a cut over the right eye.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

M. J. Wittouck, with a total of 398,637fr., headed the list of winning owners in Belgium up to the end of July.

Milton Henry is about to leave France for Rumania, having signed a contract to act as trainer and jockey in that country.

Dorothy Dickson (by Happy Warrior—Amara), who won the Prix du "Sportsman" at Ostend for Mr W. B. Purefoy, has been bought for 13,100 fr. by M. E. Lanzier.

The Comte de Monceau's Irish bred colt, George Lowe, who, with Shatwell in the saddle, beat Yohimbine at Ostend on Thursday, may run for the King Alfonso XIII. Grand Prize at San Sebastian next month.

Subsequently to the Maiden T.Y.O. Stakes at Lewes on Saturday, Mr. H. Burt, on behalf of Mrs. Goodman, lodged a complaint as to the riding of Santry Sure by W. Speck, for pulling up his mount short of the winning post, as at that point the filly was apparently easily third best. After hearing the evidence of the judge and of the jockey the Stewards exonerated Speck from wilful intent, and cautioned him to be more careful in future.

In the final round of the Men's Singles in the Lawn Tennis Tournament at Seabright, New Jersey, William M. Johnston, the Californian player, defeated R. Norris Williams (Boston)—6-0, 6-2, 6-3. In the semi-finals of the Men's Doubles Johnston and J. C. Anderson beat the Kipsey brothers.

LAWN TENNIS.

CO. WICKLOW CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Seldom has the Bray tournament closed in such perfect weather as was afforded on Saturday, and the finals were played off before a large attendance. The holders of both the Singles Championships—Miss H. Wallis and E. D. M'Crea—retained their titles. In the men's event the final lay between M'Crea and L. A. Meldon, and, rather unexpectedly, M'Crea secured it in three straight sets. Meldon made a great effort over the third set (M'Crea having taken the first and second at 6-1, 6-4), but though he led at 4-2 M'Crea was level at six all, and won at 8-6. Meldon had not the length of the court nearly so well as his opponent, his forehand drive being again and again just beyond the base line, and he scored several double faults. M'Crea, on the other hand, played a fine, cool, steady, and accurate game all through.

Mrs. Price put up a good game against Miss H. Wallis in the final of the Ladies' Open Singles, but Miss Wallis was playing at the top of her form. She also figured on the winning side with C. S. Wallis in the Mixed Open Doubles, an event for which two challenge cups have been presented by Lord and Lady Ardee. H. M. Read and H. C. Walsh took the Gentlemen's Open Doubles, defeating so strong a pair as L. A. Meldon and A. P. Barry by 3 sets to love. At the conclusion of the tournament Lady Ardee presented the prizes. Details:—

Gentlemen's Singles Championship.—Final—E. D. M'Crea beat L. A. Meldon—6-1, 6-4, 8-6.

Ladies' Singles Championship.—Final—Miss H. Wallis beat Mrs. Price—6-4, 6-3.

Gentlemen's Doubles Championship.—Semi-final—L. A. Meldon and A. P. Barry beat E. D. M'Crea and R. E. Tottenham—6-3, 7-5. Final—H. M. Read and H. C. Walsh beat L. A. Meldon and A. P. Barry —6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

Mixed Doubles Championship.—Third Round—E. and Miss F. Hornidge beat L. A. Meldon and Miss Leonard—6-4, 6-4; C. S. Wallis and Miss H. Wallis beat E. D. M'Crea and Mrs. Tomlinson—6-1, 6-3; H. M. Read and Miss N. Daly beat G. A. Kennedy and Miss Kelly—6-4, 6-3. Semi-final—M. Toppin and Mrs. West beat E. and Miss F. Hornidge—6-3, 5-7, 6-4; C. S. and Miss H. Wallis beat H. M. Read and Miss N. An interesting feature of the tournament is the introduction of a boy's and girl's singles, the entry for the former totalling 37, and for the latter 26.

Advices from Paraguay say that the Government troops have defeated the rebels, and that the latter are demoralised. One report says that among the rebels is a German aviator, formerly a captain in the German Air Force, and that he flew over the Government steamer Requelme, dropping bombs. He was driven off by the fire from the vessel.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—The depression centred over the English Channel will move North-Eastward, and be followed by a temporary improvement in the South of England. Some rain or showers are probable in all districts, with considerable falls in Eastern and North-Eastern England. Another depression, now approaching our South-Western coasts, will probably maintain conditions generally unsettled.

Ireland, N.W., N.E., S.E., and S.W.—Wind indefinite, light or moderate; fair at first, probably rain later; visibility mainly good; rather cool.

South-West Seaboard.—Mouth of Channel to S.W. Ireland—Wind indefinite, light or moderate; fair to cloudy, rain later; visibility moderate to good; sea slight.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.—North-West Seaboard, Northern Ireland to Hebrides—Wind mainly easterly, light or moderate, variable cloud; some rain or showers; visibility moderate to good, but poor at times; sea slight.

Straight Peace Talk.

The Irish Government has announced the terms on which peace can be restored in the twenty-six counties. They are terse and clear; and the country will give them its whole-hearted approval. In his letter to the authors of the "peace movement" Mr. Collins disposes effectively of the claim that the irregulars are engaged in "defensive action," and of the demand that the expression of the people's will at the recent elections shall be ignored. The mutineers can have peace to-morrow if they choose to obey the people; and, if they reject that course, the fight must continue until they are beaten in the field. The act of obedience must be an act of surrender. The men who have taken up arms against the State must deliver those arms to the State, and must cease their depredations on the persons and property of Irish citizens. The precise terms of surrender are set forth in the letter of the Government's Acting Chairman. All war material must be handed over to the national armoury. All seized property and money must be restored "without exception." Particulars must be furnished concerning all bridges, roads and railways which have been turned into death-traps for the national troops and for the general public. In other words, the surrender of the irregulars must be complete and unconditional. The Government's firm declaration of policy will serve two good purposes. In the first place, it will satisfy the people that when peace comes it will be real and lasting peace, and that the cruel sacrifices which the revolt has exacted from the country—sacrifices of life, property, and trade—will not have been made in vain. In the next place, the Government's statement deprives the mutineers of the last shadow of excuse for continued warfare upon the Irish people. It is difficult to suppose that any of their leaders really can have believed that Mr. Liam Lynch's astonishing claim could be accepted. They know now, at any rate, that it cannot be accepted; and they know the only terms which will be accepted today or at any other time. By prolonging, at the cost of further bloodshed and destruction, a conflict which can have only one result these leaders will take upon themselves a truly terrible responsibility. The nation not only has no sympathy with their cause, but is bitterly opposed to it. Their last hope of dragging Great Britain into new strife with Ireland has disappeared. Everywhere they are being discomfited in the field. During the last three days the national forces have won victory after victory in Munster. Kilmallock has been relieved. The irregulars have been routed from Tralee. Galbally, Limerick Junction and Adare are in the Army's hands. The leaders of revolt may persist in their tactics of devastation and retreat. They may involve Clonmel, Mallow and even Cork City in the havoc of shot and shell; but the end, whether it comes soon or late, is inevitable. With what conscience, then, can any Irishman, however misguided or fanatical, seek to prolong his country's agony?

The French Ultimatum.

France and Germany are again at loggerheads. On this occasion, however, it is not the still vexed question of reparations about which the tempest threatens to rage, but the comparatively minor question of the clearing house (private debts) payments. Germany is required to pay two million pounds on August 15th, but has intimated that the sum will not be forthcoming and has asked that it shall be reduced to a much smaller contribution. The term of what is described as a French ultimatum came to an end last Saturday, and the world waits to see what action the French will take. Germany declares that the agreement covering the clearing house payments was made with all the Allies jointly and that the French have no right to take independent action in the matter. The Germans further raise the technical plea that, as the two millions are not payable until August 15th, France has no right to take any steps until that time, and then will be confined in her remedy to a month's notice cancelling the clearing house agreement. The French Government is in no mood to pay serious attention to these pleas in avoidance. It has ordered the clearing house officials in Paris and Strasbourg to hold up all payments and compensation awards to Germans on account of the liquidation of the private property of Germans in France; and it has stopped further restitution to Germans of private property left by them in Alsace and Lorraine.

To what extent these measures will put the screw on Germany does not appear, nor do we know anything of the "progressive measures" with which the French Government threatens to reinforce them if they fail of their intended effect. The whole question of German reparations is in the melting-pot, and the Allied representatives are even now gathering in London for a full discussion of it. Germany insists that all questions of payments by her, whether of private debts or reparations, must be considered together. In this way she hopes to pay nothing, while piecemeal she would be bound to pay something. The Reparations Commission also takes this view up to a point. It believes that Germany's ability to pay and her manner of paying ought to be assessed as a whole; and it has recommended that all cash payments by Germany on account of reparations and clearing house debts shall be postponed until the end of the year. That the French will not accept this proposal unless the Allies are given some very definite control of German financial administration is reasonably certain. They take the view that Germany, if left to herself, can so arrange her financial costume that she can appear in rags at any given time. Others of the Allies, notably the British Government, do not take that view. They hold that, if the burden of periodical payments is lifted from her, Germany's credit must improve, and the mark must arise from its slough of despond. Germany then can no more conceal these symbols of returning prosperity and her ability to pay her debts than she can conceal her import and export returns.

It is at this point in the controversy that the unfortunate results of the Balfour Note make themselves apparent. In that Note the British Government stated that, as it must meet a debt of some eight hundred millions sterling to the United States, it must exact at least that much of the debts due to Britain from her late Allies, who in reality borrowed the money from the United States on her credit. That this Note was intended as a sort of reproachful hint to the United States nobody even pretends to believe except the American Anglophobe Press. It was either a cold statement of the financial case or it was intended to put the British Government in possession of the strongest tactical ground from which to wage the inevitable reparations battle. If the former explanation is the true one, M. Poincaré's position at the forthcoming conference will be unusually good. "You cannot ask us not to search Germany's pockets," he will say, "when you have just made the deliberate announcement that you propose to search ours." To this Mr. Lloyd George may answer—if the second explanation is correct—"We shall not search your pockets if you will refrain now from searching Germany's." M. Poincaré may reply: "You are dunning us, not because you need the money to pay America, but in order to help Germany." Prime Ministers do not—perhaps, unfortunately—talk to one another in this frank way; but such is bound to be M. Poincaré's general attitude at the conference. The last word, however, must rest with the experts, and the plan of granting Germany a moratorium is likely, after due argument, to be adopted. Then we shall see whether Germany will accept or reject the supervision of her financial administration upon which France will insist, and to which the British Government is bound to accede.

Treasures of Art.

The British Government has taken tardy notice of the persistent exodus of the country's most precious works of art. Sir Philip Sassoon, one of the trustees of the National Gallery, raised the question just before the rising of Parliament. He said that the trustees had specially in mind some eight or ten works of outstanding merit, and asked for an assurance that, if the owners should put them on the market, the Treasury would help to secure them for the nation. Sir Robert Horne's reply was sympathetic, but businesslike. The Government was anxious to keep these works of art in the country, but was not willing to pay fancy prices for them. It had arranged, therefore, that a valuation should be put on certain works of first importance, and the Treasury would be authorised to bid for them up to that amount if they should come into the market. This concession will please art-lovers, although it is to be feared that it will do little to stop the encroachments of American millionaires. We suppose that any similar action by the Irish Government at this time—even if it could afford the money—would be merely a locking of the stable-door after the steed had vanished. How many of the fine pictures from Irish private galleries which were exhibited in Dublin some years ago, under Sir Hugh Lane's auspices, are now in Ireland, and how many on the other side of the Atlantic? It is a disturbing thought, too, that valuable pictures and statuary and rare furniture must have perished in the widespread destruction of some of our noblest country houses during recent weeks. The Irish taxpayer will foot the bill for these beautiful things, but they cannot be replaced.

CLOSE OF COWES WEEK.

DEPARTURE OF THE KING.

With the departure of the King and Queen last Saturday, Cowes Week, which maintained its reputation and magnetic attraction for all classes of people, came to a close.

There was no formal leave-taking, but at two o'clock, as Their Majesties left Cowes in the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert, escorted by the destroyer Versatile, a Royal salute of twenty-one guns was fired from the Royal Yacht Squadron battery, and the yachts lying in the roadstead dipped their ensigns in salutation.

Slowly the Royal yacht slipped her moorings and steamed out of Cowes Roads in the direction of Portsmouth, where Their Majesties entrained to London.

One important event has marked the close of this year's regatta. At nine o'clock the huge White Star liner Majestic, which only the previous day had returned from New York and discharged her passengers at Southampton, steamed out into Cowes Roads, anchoring off the Royal Yacht Squadron within close view of the shore.

Two hours afterwards the King and Queen, Prince George and the Duke of York, with the ladies and gentlemen in waiting on Their Majesties in attendance, went on board the Majestic and inspected her. The Royal Standard was hoisted at the mainmast as the King and Queen stepped on board.

While the Royal inspection was in progress the Mauretania, which was inward bound, entered the Solent, passing close to the Majestic.

The King and Queen thoroughly enjoyed their visit to Cowes. Both were often ashore, and, almost entirely unmolested, went walking both in West and East Cowes.

There were tremendous crowds at Cowes on Friday night for the fireworks.

The King and Queen had their customary dinner party on the Royal yacht, their guests including Lord and Lady Herschell, General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt (who are leaving for a cruise in Earl Beatty's steam yacht, which they have chartered), Miss Vanderbilt, General and Mrs. Seely, and Mr. Thomas Pasley, the Secretary of the Royal Yacht Squadron, who has again taken such an active part in the Cowes arrangements.

HOUSE PARTIES.

There were many house and yacht parties, including a small dance given by the officers on H.M.S. Barham, the guardship, which was attended by Sir Godfrey and Lady Baring and their guests at Nubia House. Sir George and Lady Johnstone gave a dance at Castle Rock.

From a yachting, as well as from a social, point of view, Cowes week was remarkably successful, and the tradespeople of the town, who look to the annual festival to recoup them for quieter times during the remainder of the year, have every reason to be satisfied.

The competitors in the yacht racing far exceeded those at previous regattas, since the break during the war. On some days the entries numbered over eighty. Everything pointed to a revival of interest, particularly in small yacht sailing, such as the international six-metre class, in which there is exceptionally keen rivalry, in view of the forthcoming contest in American waters for the British-American Cup.

The final selection of the British team of four yachts, which will be shipped on board the Cunard liner Berengaria from Southampton for New York on the 19th inst., will be made within the next few days. In fact, the six-metre racing was one of the finest features of the Cowes regatta.

GRAND OPERA.

CARL ROSA'S LADY ARTISTIC SUPERVISOR.

The Carl Rosa Opera Company are introducing an innovation in grand opera in England. Hitherto the production side has been solely confined to the sterner sex. The Carl Rosa directorate, however, have appointed Madame Doris Woodall, who for many years was a leading prima donna, and whose Carmen is well known, to the position of artistic supervisor for the ensuing season.

In an interview on the subject with a Press Association representative, Madame Woodall said:—"From the very earliest days of my operatic career it has always been my ambition to produce grand opera. During my long operatic training at Schwerin-Mecklenburg, I had opportunities of hearing the finest artists of the day at the Hoftheater there, which was one of the foremost theatres in North Germany. Whilst at school I counted among my friends the daughters of Baron von Ledebur, director of the Opera House, and later, when I decided to take up singing as a profession, he allowed me access to all rehearsals, both musical and dramatic. It continued all through the five years of my musical training.

"It was due to the exceptional opportunities which I then had that my sense of the importance of the dramatic side of grand opera was developed. It was in those days, for the first time, very forcibly brought to my notice, that however beautifully the musical side of an opera might be rendered, it was vitally important that the dramatic side should in no wise be sacrificed."

"Grand opera," continued Madame Woodall, "in the true sense of the word, is musical drama, and in order to obtain a truly convincing performance of an operatic work the drama must receive the same amount of consideration and conscientious care as the music. It will be my aim to bring to light more forcibly and convincingly the dramatic element in opera, and, perhaps, some day we may hope to have a public—I fear not in my time or in that of the present generation—that will not regard grand opera as a succession of tuneful numbers, and will be sufficiently carried away by the dramatic situation to restrain their applause until the close of each act.

"Of course," concluded Madame Woodall, "I can only deal with this subject in a very general sense, but will tell you the following true story of Richard Strauss, to illustrate my meaning:—

"During a rehearsal of 'Feuersnot,' at the Court Theatre in Dresden, an ensemble had just finished—by the way Von Schuch was taking the rehearsal—when Richard Strauss, who had been listening in the stalls, rushed on to the stage, calling wildly for the Regisseur, and said—'Beautifully sung, but I do not want a concert.'"

PRINCESS MARY AT PUPPY WALK.

Princess Mary on Saturday attended the annual puppy walk of the Bramham Moor Hounds, of which Lord Lascelles has just become Master, and distributed the prizes.

Lord Lascelles, at the lunch, announced that the Princess wished him to say that she was looking forward to very many happy days in the field with the Bramham Moor.

The Princess and her husband will join Lord and Lady Londonderry's party at Wynyard Park for Stockton Races in the last week of August.

EXPORT CREDIT SCHEME DEPARTMENT.

The Government has decided to continue the Export Credit Scheme of Overseas Trade for another year—namely, until September 8th, 1923—and legislative sanction has been obtained under the Expiring Laws (Continuance) Act, which received the Royal assent on August 4th. The date of the final liquidation of credit remains unaltered—namely, September 8th, 1927.

PETITION FOR ALLAWAY'S REPRIEVE.

A petition for the reprieve of Thomas Henry Allaway, the chauffeur who was sentenced to death for the murder of Miss Irene Wilkins at Bournemouth on December 22nd last, has been prepared for public signature. It is addressed to the King, and submits that further inquiry and investigation will demonstrate the innocence of Allaway. A personal petition has also been signed by Allaway.

LONDON LETTER.

A GENERAL ELECTION.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

Some members were busy before leaving the House of Commons in preparing work for the autumn sitting. There are already 45 questions for oral answer on the Order Paper for Tuesday, November 14th. There are also 21 notices of motion dealing with various topics. None of them, however, is likely to be discussed; for Mr. Chamberlain has put down a notice allocating all the time of the House to Government business.

This notice assumes, of course, that the House will meet on the appointed date. A good many people are of opinion that, unless some emergency causes the Speaker to exercise the power specially reserved to him of summoning it at an earlier period than November 14th, the present House is unlikely to meet again at all, but before that date will have been replaced by a new one. It is true that, from the Government's point of view, a general election in October cannot look very attractive; for neither at home nor abroad have they succeeded in doing much to bring over doubtful voters to their side. The argument is, however, that during the winter, when there can be little increase of employment, their unpopularity is likely to grow rather than to diminish, and that consequently they might fare better at the polls in the autumn than in the spring.

In the meantime the Prime Minister has a good many things to think about before devoting his mind to the problem of dissolution. He has first to meet M. Poincaré and the representatives of other Powers, and to devise, if possible, methods of making Germany pay something substantial on account of reparations without forcing her into bankruptcy or embarking on further military operations, in which Britain, at any rate, has no desire to participate.

THE BALFOUR NOTE.

In this connection I am rather surprised at one of the criticisms passed upon Lord Balfour's famous note. It seems to be regarded as an unnecessary affront to the United States, which, we are told, is represented as having taken up an ungenerous attitude in the matter of our debt. That is unquestionably the, perhaps, rather hasty view taken by certain American journals whose comments are now being cabled back to us; but is it the view taken by the American Government? Having regard to the ordinary practice of diplomacy, I should be very much surprised to hear that Lord Balfour penned the note without having taken soundings beforehand. I feel pretty certain—without pretending to any precise knowledge on the subject—that neither to the President and Secretary of State in Washington nor to the American Ambassador in London was the note such a bolt from the blue as it seems to have been to the newspaper offices on both sides of the Atlantic.

If my theory is correct, the immediate outburst of criticism was anticipated, and the ultimate results which the note was intended to produce will not be fatally prejudiced, but possibly may be assisted, by the hostility of its reception. It would not be the first time in history that a Government desirous of taking a certain course, but doubtful whether it had the country behind it, had found indirect means of bringing a thorny problem into the area of public discussion.

Mr. Lloyd George, it is said, hopes to devote a portion of the recess to the completion of the book about the war and the peace which he is believed to have been contemplating for the past two years. He will not actually write it, I imagine—for actual penmanship remains distasteful to him—but will, as befits a dictator, dictate it. I can well believe that publishers have been falling over one another in the endeavour to secure this maiden effort; but I am a little sceptical about the price said to have been offered—£100,000 or so.

MINISTERS AND PUBLISHERS.

I well remember the sensation caused in literary circles in 1880 by the news that Longmans had paid Lord Beaconsfield £10,000 for "Endymion," the novel which he published after his retirement from office in that year. Prices have risen since then. Mr. Churchill was said to have been offered £15,000 some time ago for his book on the war; but I do not know if the statement was true. The book, at any rate, has not yet seen the light. £100,000, however, is a lot of money to get back from the sale of any book—even the opus magnum of a British Prime Minister.

If Mr. Lloyd George accomplishes his purpose and completes his book, its publication will bring him into line with all his predecessors, save one, in the office of Prime Minister during the past half century. To the best of my belief Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman never published anything; but Disraeli and Gladstone were voluminous authors. Lords Rosebery and Balfour have each many volumes to their credit—Lord Balfour is now preparing his latest series of Gifford lectures for publication—and Lord Salisbury was at one time of his life a prolific contributor to the reviews, though most of his writing was anonymous.

I wonder how many English readers will appreciate the true inwardness of a remark by Mr. Stephen Gwynn in his Observer article to-day. Referring to the despatch captured from the commander of one of the irregular brigades in Kerry, he says: "The despatch is signed by Mr. O Murchadha—that is, Murphy. This means probably that almost every O'Sullivan in Kerry will be on the national side, since the Murphys are for the irregulars."

Theatrical managers here are rather in difficulties concerning their companies in Ireland. Many companies are now being rehearsed for the autumn tours, and a number of fixtures has been made for Dublin and Belfast. There is much discussion, however, as to whether these ventures should not be cancelled. It is pointed out that difficulties of transport must be considerable, and all the other rather imaginary difficulties are trotted out as usual. It is to be hoped that they will have little effect; for the Irish people are certainly in need of any bright form of entertainment after the anxieties and trials of the past few months, and will know how to welcome and safeguard anybody that provides it.

THE NEW AEROPLANES.

Nothing has transpired to explain the announcement by Mr. Lloyd George on Thursday last to the effect that it had been decided to proceed with a proposal of the Air Ministry to provide five hundred machines for home defence. The statement was capable of several interpretations; but it is now believed that the intention is not to provide five hundred additional machines, but to bring the number allocated to home defence to that strength, including those at present in use. The actual increase in the Royal Air Force is thus uncertain, but there will be disappointment among those who have given the matter their serious attention if several new squadrons at least are not confirmed.

It is said that there are to be twenty-three home defence squadrons, and, if we assume that to be the case, and that every squadron will consist of three "flights" of five machines and three machines attached to the headquarters of every squadron, the number of machines available would be 414, leaving 86 of the 500 to be allocated to reserve squadrons which would be used for training the personnel necessary to maintain the defending squadrons at their established strength. If that is the scheme to which Mr. Lloyd George referred, it will be insufficient to quieten criticism of the Government for their neglect in the matter of air defence.

PLAN THAT FAILED.

IRREGULARS TRY TO ISOLATE DUBLIN.

160 PRISONERS TAKEN.

PREPARATIONS FOR WHOLESALE DESTRUCTION.

But for the efficiency of the national Army's intelligence service Dublin would be isolated from the rest of Ireland to-day.

The irregulars had made elaborate preparations to cut the railway lines and to block the roads leading to the city by blowing up bridges on Saturday night. Men, fully equipped for this work, were sent to the city from the South, via Liverpool.

Fortunately the Army authorities learned of the plot, and were able to frustrate it. Small parties of soldiers were sent to watch the proposed points of attack, and succeeded in capturing 160 prisoners and large quantities of material.

During the night heavy firing was heard in every part of Dublin.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

AN ATTEMPTED COUP.

The following official bulletin was issued by Irish Army Publicity Department at 12.45 this morning:—

"From information which came to hand from various sources it was learned that preparations were being made by irregulars to bring off a coup in the Dublin area on Saturday night.

"Numbers of irregulars came to Dublin from Cork, travelling via Liverpool, in order to take part in the proposed operations.

"The objective of the irregulars was to isolate Dublin by destroying bridges, roads, railways, and other means of communication.

"As the result of careful observation and the scheme of military operations carried out in the area by the troops, the entire plan of the irregulars was frustrated, and prisoners to the number of 160, with large quantities of arms, ammunition, explosives, and other war materials, were taken.

"The thoroughness of the intelligence, observation, and military organisation on the part of the Army is shown by the fact that not only was the proposed work of destruction prevented, so that not even one bridge was destroyed, but the greater bulk of those who were to take part in the irregular operations were made prisoners without any casualties amongst the troops.

DETAILS OF CAPTURES.

"The materials captured included six motor cars, which had been stolen by the irregulars.

"In the South County Dublin area a party of 31 irregulars, with a motor car and their equipment, were taken prisoners at Glencullen. At Glendhu Bridge three irregulars with a motor car and three land mines were captured.

"At Killakee road 11 prisoners, with their arms, were taken.

"At Font Bridge, near Roundwood, 10 irregulars, with small arms, grenades, picks, shovels, and other implements, were captured.

"Troops operating in North County Dublin captured four irregulars at Finglas. They carried arms and ammunition and a quantity of engineering appliances.

"At Cabra Bridge 22 irregulars, with their equipment, were taken, two of whom were wounded.

"At Donnevcarney supplies of engineering equipment and explosives were left behind by the irregulars.

"Four irregulars, with a stolen motor car and arms and ammunition, were taken at Raheny.

"At Santry 12 prisoners, with their equipment, were taken.

"At Fairview 42 irregulars were made prisoners, including Mr. Patrick Sweeney, a leader of the irregulars in North County Dublin."

IN THE COUNTY.

STORIES OF THE CAPTURES.

From an unofficial source some interesting details of the operations were gleaned yesterday. The operations in South County Dublin were preceded by the advance of a party of troops from the city to Glencullen, the route taken being via Enniskerry. At about half a mile south of the bridge at Glencullen the troops discovered an outpost of four irregulars, and these they arrested.

Almost immediately afterwards they came upon a motor car in which were five irregulars, including a well-known Dublin irregular, Mr. Noel Lemass. All five were disarmed and arrested. The troops, dismounting from their cars, proceeded on foot to Glencullen Bridge, preceded by three soldiers wearing caps and trench coats.

These three members of the national Army went in advance of the troops into the village, and at the church they met the leader of the irregulars in the village. To this man they gave the irregulars' password, and then learned that his men, whom he brought out from concealment at various places, were ready to blow up the bridge, and were only awaiting the arrival of materials. The troops surrounded the party of irregulars, numbering about 31, and made them prisoners.

Another party of troops operating at Glendhu captured two irregulars, who formed an outpost, near Rosebrook cross roads. This party proceeded along the Pine Forest road, until within 300 yards of Glendhu Bridge. Here they left their cars, and, continuing on foot, in extended order, towards the bridge, they found an abandoned motor car there, loaded with picks and shovels. Taking possession of these, the party went on to Frockenben Bridge. The advance party was heavily fired on, and the troops deployed and took shelter behind the hedges. After a very short interval the irregulars retreated hurriedly to the forest nearby, and owing to the darkness they got away, except one, who was captured.

IN THE NICK OF TIME.

The troops found that here the irregulars had begun operations on the bridge, and one of the walls was partially demolished. A hole had also been prepared for the reception of a mine. Three land mines, a large quantity of fuse, and some small arms were taken, with picks and shovels, etc.

This party, on its return to Dublin, captured three irregulars who were retreating from the forest towards Kilakee House. All three were armed and had hand grenades. Three others were arrested further down the road, in the direction of Dublin. In all, seven irregulars were arrested by this party.

A third party of troops took up a position on the Kilakee road. The troops brought the cars under the shadow of the hedges, shut off the engines, sat down, and waited for the arrival of the irregulars, and as the irregulars arrived in ones and twos, armed with revolvers and grenades, they were made prisoners. In this way eleven were captured.

A fourth party operating in the South went towards Roundwood Reservoir. They arrested two armed irregulars on their way out, adopting the same tactics as the third party. They arrested eight irregulars, four of whom were armed with revolvers and others with bombs. Crowbars, picks, and shovels were found in a corner of a gate near the Fort Bridge.

Success followed the operations of the troops on the north side of the county. About midnight a patrol of troops proceeded to Finglas Bridge, where four men were caught in the act of laying a mine on the bridge. On the approach of the troops the irregulars put up their hands and were made prisoners. The mine, and a large quantity of engineering tools and appliances, were captured. Five men of the patrol were left to guard the bridge and the remaining eleven proceeded to Cabra Bridge, where they discovered a party of irregulars working at the mining of the bridge. The troops opened fire on the irregulars, wounding two. The remainder immediately came out from behind cover, put up their hands, and surrendered. All were armed with various types of revolvers and automatic pistols. Twenty-two prisoners were taken. The patrol then went to Blanchardstown, where they captured four prisoners, a number of land mines, oxygen cylinders, used in cutting railways, batteries, and a quantity of fuse.

Commandant Kilcoyne, who was in charge of operations in North Dublin, accompanied by a party of four men, left in a touring car for Doneycarney village, where they noticed that the telegraph poles had been cut. Advancing to the bridge they found a party of twenty irregulars tearing up the bridge with pickaxes. The troops opened fire on the irregulars, who immediately retreated in motor cars in the direction of Artane, leaving all their engineering implements and equipment behind them. The bridge was not badly damaged.

IRREGULARS OPEN FIRE.

Prior to the arrival of the troops the irregulars opened fire on a taxi cab which was going to Dublin with three women and two men. The two men were wounded and were taken to the Mater Misericordiae Hospital. The three women were obliged to stay in a neighbouring house all night.

The troops pursued the irregulars, and were joined by another party in motor cars. They proceeded to Raheny, and on approaching the village they were fired on by irregulars who had taken cover behind a felled tree on the roadside. The troops, dismounting, rushed the position, and the irregulars retreated into the village. Leaving the cars, the troops pursued the men into the village and captured four of them in the cemetery. Their ammunition was also captured.

At dawn these prisoners were brought out by the troops and compelled to saw in pieces two felled trees which were on the road and clear it of obstacles.

Troops were used to strengthen the outposts at Fairview, where they captured 42 irregulars.

The irregulars in many instances discarded their arms, and were in a demoralised condition. One of the arrested men was Patrick Sweeney, a leader of the irregulars in the north side of the city.

Another party of troops in a Lancia car was going to Malahide, along the Santry road, to protect the viaduct, and after passing Whitehall the soldiers were informed by civilians that irregulars were lying in ambush between the Thatch and Santry. Dismounting, the troops proceeded under cover, and opened fire on the irregulars who were lying in ambush. The troops took twelve prisoners. They then remounted and continued their journey to Malahide, taking the prisoners with them. Here they took up about twenty irregulars, who were going about in twos and threes, armed, and carrying engineering tools.

There was little damage done in the north side. Four telegraph poles were gashed, and two were completely pulled down on the Malahide road. Trees were also felled.

The people in the district gave the troops a very hearty welcome, insisting in many instances on them having breakfast with them.

Six motor cars were recovered.

The excuse given by some of the captured irregulars for being found on the roads in the early morning hours was that they were out picking mushrooms.

SHOOTING IN DUBLIN.

Firing began at about midnight on Saturday at various points in Dublin, and lasted until 3 a.m. Citizens, awakened from their slumbers, were very apprehensive as to what was happening, and were relieved later to find that nothing very serious had occurred. Posts occupied by national troops were fired at, and there was a heavy return fire.

The firing was not confined to the centre of the city and the vicinity of the military barracks. Snipers were active in the neighbourhood of Mountjoy Prison, Phibsborough, Finglas, and Drumcondra, as well as in various districts on the South side. In Harcourt street a bomb was thrown at national troops, but no damage was done. Several persons were treated in hospital for bullet wounds. The activity of the national troops in rounding up irregular bands appears to have caused unusual liveliness among the irregular snipers.

It was learned yesterday that as a result of a thorough search of the city and suburbs about 150 prisoners were captured.

In Thomas street John McGrath, a native of Nenagh, was wounded in the leg and taken to Mercer's Hospital.

At the Mater Hospital three men were admitted suffering from gunshot wounds. Their names are:—James Lynch, Mountjoy place; James Atkins, Lower Baggot street; and Thomas McCarthy, Aungier street.

Dr. L. J. Masterson, Manor street, was shot through the lung and shoulder while on his way home after attending a patient at Summerhill. He is progressing favourably at Jervis Street Hospital.

On Saturday evening Christopher Higgins (30), Charles street, and Maggie Mullane (24), of the same address, were taken to Mercer's Hospital suffering from wounds received in an ambush of national troops at the corner of York street.

Two irregulars were taken in a national army ambulance to Jervis Street Hospital yesterday morning suffering from bullet wounds in the arms. After treatment they were taken away prisoners.

A national soldier named William Connolly was struck in the legs by a spent bullet in Abbey street early yesterday morning. He was treated in Jervis Street Hospital and was discharged.

On the Malahide road two telegraph poles, which had been cut down about a fortnight ago, were laid across the thoroughfare. These carried 30 or 40 telegraph and telephone wires, which were thus completely put out of use.

FIGHT AT STATION.

IRREGULARS SURRENDER.

Passengers on the 9.30 p.m. train from Harcourt street on Saturday had a startling experience. A party of national troops, under the command of a lieutenant, appeared on the platform at Foxrock Station and entered a third class carriage to arrest four men.

One of the men drew a revolver and fired at the lieutenant, and the four then opened the door at the opposite side and jumped out on to the rails, from which position they opened fire with revolvers on the military. They continued to fire for five minutes, and, having spent all their ammunition, put up their hands and surrendered. Six revolvers were found in their possession.

The surface of Watling street, London, and cottages bordering on it have been so damaged by the excessive speed of heavy motor cars that the police are prosecuting all motorists exceeding twelve miles an hour.

SHOTS AT A FUGITIVE.

SPECIAL POLICEMAN KILLED.

A double shooting affair took place on Saturday night on the Newtownards road, Belfast. A crowd pursued a man, who took refuge in a public-house. Several shots were fired into the bar, and two men who were on the premises were hit with bullets.

One of them, Samuel Hayes, 17 Susan street, a "C" Special, who was home on leave, was killed, and the other, Thomas Culbert, 45 Harland street, was wounded on the knee. The affair was the occasion of much excitement in the district.

No arrests have been made.

M. Litvinoff, who is on his way to Moscow, visited the Polish Foreign Minister in Warsaw on Friday, and discussed with him questions relating to the present relations between the two countries. At M. Litvinoff's request he was granted an interview by Marshal Pilsudski, the President of Poland.

CRISIS IN CORK.

TRADERS AND INCOME TAX.

IRREGULARS' DEMANDS

A visitor who has returned from the South writes:—

A crisis of the most grave character has arisen in Cork, and the entire closing down of the city is threatened. During some weeks the irregulars seized all the public services, including the Customs, Inland Revenue, income tax and post office. These are believed to have brought them a sum of about £100,000. There is an impression that, with the advance of the national forces by way of Kerry, Bantry Bay, and Mallow, and the irregulars' fighting stubborn rearguard action, the struggle will end in or about Cork, and that the city will suffer severely. The irregulars have met with no opposition in collecting Customs, Excise, and inland revenue, and the traders whose shops have been raided for clothes and food have not offered resistance.

When they took possession of the offices and books, Mr. Charles Hayes, Inspector for Cork District, left the city. But when he reached Cappoquin, he was apprehended and sent back to Cork. Subsequently he was liberated on parole, with the condition that he must report daily to the irregular headquarters. He is treated with every courtesy, and the demand notes for this most unpopular tax are being sent out broadcast with a degree of rigour never previously experienced. The notice is as follows:—

"Irish Republican Army, Cork, No. 1 Brigade, Civil Administration Department, Inland Revenue Offices, 1st August, 1922.

"It appears that Income Tax, amounting to £——, is payable by your firm for the financial year 1921-22. You are hereby ordered to pay this sum in full to the Collector of Customs and Excise, Cork, within three days from the date hereof. If the whole or any portion of this tax has already been paid, please furnish the receipt.

(Signed)

"Officer I.C., Civil Administration."

FIRM REFUSAL.

This communication came as a bombshell to the taxpayers, especially to the directors of the breweries, distilleries, bacon curing factories, and other large firms, and a joint meeting of the Cork Incorporated Chamber of Commerce and Shipping, the Cork Chamber of Commerce, and the Cork Employers' Federation, Ltd., was held. The law adviser to the last-named body is Mr. Maurice Healy, ex-M.P., and he advised strongly against the payment of income tax to anyone save the accredited representatives of the Government. It was resolved unanimously that all firms and individuals represented should agree that if, in consequence of refusal to comply with the demands of the irregulars, any firm or individual were victimised drastic steps would be taken by all other firms to express their sympathy and support in the most practical manner by the closing down of all industrial and trading operations generally and the discharge of all hands.

The firm of Henry Ford and Son, which employs 2,000 hands, and pays £10,000 per week in wages, joined in this decision.

A deputation waited upon the Lord Mayor of Cork (Alderman D. O'Callaghan), and told him that the meeting had decided not to accede in any circumstances whatever to the demand of the irregulars for payment of income tax. The Lord Mayor courteously agreed to convey the message to the proper quarters, but did not conceal his grave anxiety that the consequences might be serious.

The merchants at their meeting were fortified by the counsel of their legal adviser.

There was a sequel to the meeting on Friday evening, when Mr. Maurice Healy was taken from his chambers on Grand Parade, Cork, and deported to England on board the ss. Classic, of the City of Cork Steam Packet Company.

It is stated that the stock of postage stamps, overprinted "Rialtas Sealadach na hEireann," in Cork, is all but exhausted.

The unemployed in Cork at present number nearly 10,000, and if all the factories and commercial houses are forced to close down the situation will be one of exceptional distress, if not starvation, for thousands.

BRITAIN'S WAR DEBT.

"THE WHOLE STORY."

Dealing with the reception of the Earl of Balfour's Note in the United States, the Spectator says:—

"The only thing will be to make the whole story of our financial dealings in the Great War clear to America. Though we confess we do not like the task of explaining our virtues, especially to our own kinsmen, we shall, we admit, not suffer in the estimation of the world, though we may hurt the susceptibility of some of our Allies. In truth, our financial sacrifices are an heroic story—one as bold, adventurous, and sincere as the world's history can show. That is why it is hateful to see our record smirched, or apparently smirched, be it ever so little, by anything which looks like subtlety.

"We spent, we lent, like heroes in our determination to win in a good cause. We never thought of how we, as apart from the Allies, should benefit. No demand for pecuniary help that could possibly be granted was ever refused. We never haggled for security. When we had no more to spend or to lend we pledged our good name for the Allies, and borrowed for them from America. The money we thus borrowed was not sent here to save our taxpayers. It was at once passed on to our Allies. We never battened on American dollars. That, of course, is not a matter that concerns our debt to America, and, indeed, should never have been mentioned between us, as we show elsewhere. Since, however, it has been so ill-advisedly intruded, let us have the whole story and not the halt.

"But that is not all. In France our Armies respected the financial sensitiveness of our Allies in a way which sounds almost incredible. We paid for the railway tickets of our soldiers as if they were tourists. We compensated the peasants for many of the trenches dug or camps made to defend them. We rented offices for our Staffs. We even paid the farmers for letting our thirsty soldiers drink from their wells! We do not complain; we do not want to talk about it; but we must make the world see that we are not the sordid kind of people they might think us to be owing to the Note."

U.S. RAILWAY STRIKE.

POSSIBLE EXTENSION.

WASHINGTON, Saturday.

A message was received at the White House last night from the legislative representatives of the Engineers', Firemen's, and Trainmen's Unions requesting a conference between President Harding and the chief executives of the unions for the purpose of presenting these railwaymen's views on the present strike of shopmen.

The strike is daily growing more serious, and only by urging a neutral attitude have the three unions so far been successful in persuading their members to continue at their posts. It is feared that if the present state of affairs is allowed to continue, the inevitable result will be that the three unions will be drawn into the controversy.

The message reached the White House too late to receive President Harding's attention last night.—(Reuter.)

AUSTRIA'S PLIGHT.

COST OF LIVING DOUBLED IN A MONTH.

VIENNA, Sunday.

The issue of new bank notes in Austria during the last week reached 94 milliards of crowns, making the total in circulation 768 milliards. This is the highest total yet recorded.

The cost of living in Vienna has nearly doubled within the last month. Prices of different kinds of foodstuffs have reached such exorbitant figures as to place them beyond the reach of the bulk of the people. It is feared that the delay in granting assistance to Austria is likely to have a most disastrous consequence.—(Reuter.)

RUSSIAN GRAIN FOR ENGLAND.

REVAL, Saturday.

The newspaper Trud, of Moscow, estimates that 300,000 to 400,000 poods of grain will be available for export. This surplus will be sent to England to get on the market before the cheap South American grain.—(Reuter.)

[A Russian pood equals 36.11 English pounds.]

WORLD FLIGHT DELAYS.

FRENCH DEMAND GUARANTEES.

GERMANY'S EVASIVE REPLY.

THREAT TO APPLY COERCION.

TO-DAY'S REPARATION CONFERENCE.

France's ultimatum requiring assurances that Germany will pay £2,000,000 by August 15th on account of clearing house, or pre-war, debts, expired last Saturday at noon.

Germany has sent what is described in Paris as a further temporising note; the French Government has indicated the scope of certain measures of retortion which it intends to put into force at once.

The Allied Reparation Conference opens in London this morning. Mr. Lloyd George will preside, and the French and Belgian Premiers and the Italian Foreign Minister will attend.

The Reparation Commission has recommended the Allies to suspend all cash payments due from Germany for the remainder of the year in consequence of the collapse of the mark.

MEASURES OF RETORTION.

FRENCH PLANS OUTLINED.

The French ultimatum, requiring the German Government to give assurances that it will pay the £2,000,000 required on account of Clearing House debts by August 15, expired on Saturday, and it was semi-officially announced in Paris in the evening that the Government had come to the following decisions:—

(1) The Clearing House offices at Paris and Strasburg are requested until further notice to postpone all recognition of German credits.

(2) The Clearing House offices are called upon to make no further payments until further notice on account of the German Government, or in respect of proceeds of the liquidation of the private property of Germans in France, or the compensation awarded by the mixed neutral tribunal.

The effects of the Franco-German agreement of August-September, 1921, under which the payments of the Clearing House offices at Paris and Strasburg were made are thus suspended, and the German Government must, therefore, execute from its own resources past or future awards given against it by the Clearing House offices.

(3) The Clearing House offices at Paris and Strasburg are requested to cease any notification to Germany of the net proceeds of the liquidation of German property in France.

This step will render impossible the indemnification of Germans whose prosperity has been liquidated in France, and will prevent the Reichstag utilising credits for the benefit of this category of German nationals.

(4) The present execution of the Franco-German agreement concluded at Baden Baden for the restitution of personal property left in Alsace and Lorraine by German owners is suspended.

(5) Measures of preservation will be immediately taken in Alsace and Lorraine, and, in the event of these various measures not sufficing for the speedy settlement of the question, they will be supplemented by other progressive dispositions.

EVASION AND OBSTRUCTION.

The foregoing measures, it is semi-officially explained, are not designed to produce a great effect on public opinion. It is a case of practical measures to make an impression on Germany. The matter would not have created such a sensation had not Germany published the letters which have been exchanged between the two Governments.

The system selected for settlement of the question of private debts was that of clearance through special offices, and it was obligatory for French creditors to deal through their offices. The French Government has decided to take the place of creditors in order to safeguard their rights.

The German Government has attempted to ride roughshod over the application of the Treaty of Versailles in so far as the operation of Clearing House offices is concerned, just as it has attempted to evade reparation clauses.

The German Government has raised difficulty upon difficulty every time it has been a question of settling accounts. For that reason, the French Government has found it necessary to study the question of measures for retortion, the severity of which would increase in proportion to the persistence of Germany's unwillingness to pay her debt.

GERMANY'S PROTEST.

NOT A FAILURE, BUT AN IMPOSSIBILITY.

The text of the German reply to M. Poincaré's last note will be presented to the French Government to-day. It declares that the Clearing House payments are due on August 15th, and that the consequences arising from non-payment are laid down in an agreement.

According to this agreement the Allied Powers are entitled to give one month's notice of its termination. No reprisals are, therefore, possible in the event of the German Government refusing to declare by August 5 that it is ready to pay the stipulated amount.

It is further emphasised that in its last communication to the French Government the Government of the Reich never expressed an intention to discontinue the German payments completely, but pointed out the impossibility of making them at the present figure.

The note in conclusion refers once more to the precarious financial and economic position of Germany, and expresses a hope that the French Government will not resort to reprisals until the whole question has been finally settled by all the Powers concerned.

Copies of the British and Belgian replies to the German request for a reduction of the Clearing House payments are appended to the Note.

BRITAIN'S SCHEME.

REDUCTION BY 75 PER CENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

The Reparation Commission publishes the following communiqué:—In the course of its sitting of August 3 the Reparation Commission considered the attached motion presented by the British delegate, Sir John Bradbury, and decided by a majority of three votes to one to adjourn the decision on the said motion until after the London Conference:—

"In consequence of the present financial situation of Germany and the collapse of the mark, the Reparation Commission considers that it has become necessary to suspend for the remainder of the year 1922 all payments to be made in cash by Germany in the form of foreign currencies, in accordance with the obligations imposed by the Treaty of Versailles.

"The Commission, therefore, recommends the Allied Governments to suspend all payments on account of the Clearing House obligations, on conditions that the monthly sum of £500,000 offered by the German Government for these services is paid to the Reparation Commission to be allocated by the latter to such purposes as it may afterwards decide.

"If the Allied Governments accept this recommendation, the Commission agrees to suspend the balance still owing of the payments to be made in cash on account of reparations for 1922.

"The total of the payments thus suspended will be treated in the same manner as those postponed by the decision of the Commission of March 21, 1922.

"In consequence of the urgency of the present situation the Commission has not considered it necessary to impose fresh conditions for the moratorium granted for the year 1922.

"Nevertheless, it would be necessary very shortly to determine the amount of the payments to be demanded from Germany during the years 1923 and 1924."

PLAN NOT FAVOURED.

The Temps, commenting to-day on this resolution, recalls that the Clearing House in Paris is counting on the payment of a total of 170,000,000 francs and the office at Strasburg on 608,000,000, representing the interests of more than 11,500 creditors in Alsace-Lorraine.

"If the payments are reduced and paid to the Reparation Commission, for whom they were not intended, the French creditors will run the risk of being definitely despoiled. Moreover, payments of compensation, in accordance

THE CONFERENCE.

CHANCE FOR COMMON SENSE.

"THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY SAYS:—

The results of the peace are in the melting pot. The Allies' power of control is weakened by long-continued dissensions. At the very moment when the danger is greatest, when we are faced with the prospect of new economic perturbations, the differences of opinion between the Allied Governments are more sharply emphasised than ever. The faint hope that the growing seriousness of the situation would impel the Allies to agree on a large and generous plan has been dissipated on the eve of the Conference.

The Balfour Note, and the sudden determination of the French to enforce, by repressive measures against Germany, the execution of one of the minor clauses of the Treaty, have placed new obstacles in the way of a big collective effort. In the Near East, too—whose miserable condition the Prime Ministers must seriously discuss—the plans for peace that were so carefully elaborated by the Allied Foreign Ministers in March have lost, during the last week, all their effectiveness. The Prime Ministers are meeting, apparently, without any prepared scheme or any basis for discussion, except the bare and menacing realities. There appears to be no agreement on the proposal for a moratorium for Germany, and the whole question of war debts, and of the action that should be taken if Germany defaults, has now been caught up by wild winds of controversy.

It is to be hoped, at any rate, that in the course of the conversations bitter realities will bring the Allies together, as a prolonged indulgence in illusions has never yet done. It is as well that the Conference is meeting without pretensions. There will be the more chance for common-sense.

THE HOLIDAY MIND.

CAUSES OF ACCIDENTS.

The beginning of a holiday resembles the beginning of any other enterprise in this respect, that it introduces fresh conditions of life, and demands rapid adaptation of mind and body, remarks The Times editorially. Such adaptation may be of wide extent, and may impose a strain of no inconsiderable kind. The translation from a city to a country life, while not of itself necessarily exacting, becomes, when strenuous pastimes are included immediately in the new round of activities, a heavy burden.

Every year, in consequence, there are recorded at this season lamentable accidents and deaths which might, at least in the majority of instances, easily enough have been avoided. The early days of a holiday should be days of preparation rather than of acievement, days of that masterly inactivity which is the chrysalis stage of successful recreation. From these in time will emerge the holiday mind, furnished with new capacities of enjoyment and free of the circumstances of strenuous living.

BACK TO SCHOOL AT 71.

KEEPING MENTALLY ALERT.

Telegraphing from New York yesterday The Times Correspondent states:—A woman, aged 71, is among the latest undergraduates to be enrolled by Columbia University, New York. Her name is Mrs. A. P. Crawford, and she lives at Greenboro', North Carolina. Fifty years ago she graduated from Vassar College, the American Girton, with a first-class degree. She is now the mother of six children.

I am going to school again (says Mrs. Crawford) in order to keep mentally alert and up to date. There is no need for anyone to grow mentally old. These rapidly changing times demand new view-points; the woman of to-day must keep herself well informed as part of her duty as a citizen.

Mrs. Crawford refuses to admit that there is anything strange in her action in resuming her studies at such an advanced age. "I lost my job when my children grew up and married," is her reply. "Now I must keep myself occupied in some other way."

MISSING ENGLISH COLONEL.

BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN DROWNED.

The Times Paris Correspondent says:—An English Army officer, Colonel Lewis, who was staying for a holiday at Ploumanach, on the Breton coast, near Lannion, has been missing since July 31. On Friday his clothes were found on the rocks.

He frequently dived from the high rocks, and it is supposed that he was carried out to sea by a strong current.

IRISH ORPHANS.

OFFER OF A HOME IN AUSTRALIA.

The following advertisement appeared in The Times of last Friday:—

"Have you got a big empty house? An Irish orphanage has, by instructions of the rebels, been burned to the ground. The children, after terrible experiences, were rescued, and are now in this country. Will someone lend a house large enough to accommodate 33 boys and staff? Full particulars and references from the Hon. Secretary, c/o. Barclay's Bank, Pall Mall, East, S.W. 1."

As a result of the appeal, says The Times, an offer has been made through Mr. Andrew Reid, whose present address is "care of Australia House, London, on behalf of the Burnside Homes at Parramatta, near Sydney." It is an offer to the guardians of these Irish orphans to house, educate, and settle them in life in Australia. The home which would be made available to these boys is a building just being completed at a cost of £8,000 in the Burnside group of orphan homes at Parramatta. Already there are in the group fifteen fine modern buildings, each of them housing some thirty children, so that nearly 500 orphans or needy children are enjoying there the comforts of clean home life in healthy surroundings, and under close and sympathetic supervision.

The new home with which this offer is concerned has been presented by one of the directors of the Burnside scheme to relieve congestion expected to result from the war. The donor, who is at present in this country—as also is Sir James Burns, the founder of the Burnside Homes—has now decided to make the new house available to the sufferers by the violence in Ireland which has destroyed an orphanage. If this offer is accepted by the guardians of the children concerned, arrangements will be made after confirmation by the Board of the Burnside Homes, and evidence of the physical fitness of the children for their early passage, free of cost, to Australia.

KILMALLOCK OCCUPIED.

SUCCESSES IN WEST LIMERICK.

FOUR VILLAGES RELIEVED.

Yesterday national troops relieved Rathkeale and three other villages in West Limerick, after what the official report describes as "stiff engagements."

Kilmallock has been evacuated by the irregulars, and the Dublin Guards have taken Adare. In County Kerry, Listowel has been captured. Our Special Correspondent gives a graphic description of the operations which resulted in these successes.

OFFICIAL REPORTS.

FOUR TOWNS RELIEVED.

The following official bulletin was issued from the Publicity Department, Field G.H.Q., South-Western Command, at 11.10 last night:—

"West Limerick. — Rathkeale, Broadford, Askeaton, and Ballingarry were captured, after stiff engagements, by the troops to-day. The people accorded the troops a tremendous welcome on their entry into the captured towns. General Duffy and Commandant-General Lynch were present when the troops marched into Kathkeale.

THREAT TO KILL PRIEST.

"At the early Mass, in Rathkeale this morning, apparently because Canon O'Donnell, P.P., had been for weeks past advising the people to abide by democratic governement, an irregular went into the church with two bombs, avowing in very blasphemous language that he would 'do for' the Canon. Some friend of the irregular followed him into the church, and succeeded in getting him to leave, without perpetrating any outrage.

PRISONERS' RUSE.

"Two prisoners in Limerick Prison feigned serious illness on Friday night, and, through the kindness of their guards, were removed on stretchers to the County Infirmary. They had hardly been received into the latter institution when, obtaining clothes from some friends, they decamped. Owing to this act it has been decided that all prisoners will henceforth be treated inside the prison, no matter how seriously ill they may be."

SUCCESSES IN SOUTH-WEST.

The following official bulletin was issued from the Publicity Department, G.H.Q., South-Western Command, at 5 p.m. yesterday:—

"Tipperary, Golden, Galbally, Limerick Junction, Cashel, Kilfinny, and Kilmacow have been occupied by the troops. The irregulars who held Limerick Junction surrendered with their leader, a Mr. Fitzpatrick.

"The troops at Oola captured eight irregulars who had left Limerick Junction previously. At Cashel the irregulars put up some resistance, and several were taken prisoners, together with a quantity of arms, ammunition, and equipment.

"Kerry troops, operating from Ballylongford, occupied Listowel at 5.30 p.m. on August 5. The irregulars who had occupied the town retired on Abbeyfeale before the troops arrived, burning the barrack, workhouse, and courthouse before fleeing.

"The progress of the troops was everywhere marked by enthusiastic welcomes from the civilian population, who had been treated disgracefully by the irregulars.

"Fourteen prisoners were taken, together with a large quantity of arms and ammunition.

KILMALLOCK.

The following official bulletin was issued from the Publicity Department, Field G.H.Q., at 6 p.m. on Saturday:—

"Kilmallock was entered at 8.30 a.m. to-day. The irregulars retreated on the advance of the troops.

"When the troops arrived in the town they received a tumultuous reception by the inhabitants, who expressed their sincere delight to be rid of the irregulars, whom they described as 'worse than the Black-and-Tans.'

"The town, including the railway station and all bridges, is practically intact, the mines having been removed by the troops. Ashill Towers is also uninjured.

"During the fight for the town the irregulars seized eight civilians and forced them to build barricades under the fire of the troops. The civilians strongly protested, and the irregulars threatened to blow their brains out if they did not do the work.

"Eight prisoners were taken, with a quantity of rifles and ammunition.

"The casualties amongst the troops were light. The officer in command of the town has issued an order (1) to close all public-houses; (2) to restore all looted property to Ashill Towers; (3) to open all shops."

ADARE.

The following official bulletin was issued from Field G.H.Q., South-Western Command, at 12.45 on Saturday:—

"Adare was captured at 7 o'clock last night by West Limerick troops, under Brigadier Keane, and a detachment of Dublin troops, under Colonel-Commandant Keogh, who converged on the town from two different points simultaneously.

"The irregulars apparently made a hasty retreat after a few shells had hit their headquarters, established at the local hotel. It is reported that Mr. Harpney, a leader of the irregulars, was killed. The casualties among the troops were one killed and three wounded."

OPERATIONS IN KERRY.

HOW THE TROOPS LANDED.

RELIEF OF TRALEE.

The following official bulletin was issued from Headquarters Staff, Irish Army, at 11 p.m. on Saturday night:—

"A despatch to hand from the O.C. of troops in the Kerry area says:—We landed at Fenit on Wednesday morning. Fire was opened on us from the coastguard station, and from other posts along the beach. Our troops landed successfully and rushed the village. We suffered two casualties, Volunteer Shiels and Volunteer Sieman being wounded in the dash. We captured one prisoner here.

"The irregulars retreated before our fire, and were closely pursued by the men of the Dublin Guards. We overtook them at Spa, where, after a bitter engagement, the irregulars were again forced to retreat, leaving behind them one dead, one wounded, and six prisoners. Our losses were Volunteer Byrne (killed), and Lieutenant Martin Nolan (slightly wounded).

"We divided forces at Spa. Commandant McGuinness and Vice-Commandant Dempsey, with one party, pushed on towards Tralee. Captain McClean, with another party, advanced along the coast to enter the town by Boherbee. At the Industrial Schools, just outside the town, we again came under the fire of the irregulars, but after a few minutes they retreated here. The railway gates at Pembroke street were heavily chained and barred, but the troops smashed through, and Pembroke street was taken by assault. Vice-Commandant Dempsey advanced around the town, and occupied the workhouse, linking up with Captain McClean's party on the south. Commandant McGuinness advanced into the town from Boherbee.

"The first of our troops entered Tralee at 1.30 p.m. by Pembroke street. They rushed Rock street from this point, and it immediately fell into our hands. At the same time, Commandant Dempsey encircled the town, whilst Commandant McGuinness, forcing his way via Boherbee, took possession of the Staff Barracks. A fierce engagement, lasting over an hour, took place here. A large body of irregulars evacuated Ballymullen Barracks, and set fire to the building before they left, but a large portion of the building was saved by the troops. The police barracks in Church street was also set on fire by the irregulars before they left. The town was completely in our hands at 8 p.m.

"During the assault at Rock street one soldier was wounded. The Red Cross men immediately started to his assistance, carrying two large Red Cross flags and stretchers. Fire was opened on them from the police barrack, and Volunteer Harding was shot dead and Volunteer Fleming was wounded, both dead and wounded falling across the stretcher they were carrying. This cowardly act was witnessed by a large number of townspeople, who were loud in their condemnation of such a despicable act.

"At Fenit we discovered that the irregulars had the landing pier mined. A prisoner taken here by us was got to remove the mine on our orders. We found subsequently two mines, one at each side of the pier, both of which had failed to explode."

SEARCHES IN DUBLIN.

Under the above heading the following appeared in our issue of Saturday:—"It is reported that the premises of the Gaelic Press were searched, and that some machinery was dismantled." We are informed that such search did take place, but that no portion of the machinery was dismantled.

ACCORDING TO PLAN.

THE TAKING OF KILMALLOCK.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LIMERICK, Saturday.

Kilmallock has passed into the hands of the national forces, who entered the town at 4 a.m. this morning with no further opposition. The town has been attacked and defended, captured and evacuated strictly according to the respective plans of the forces engaged; for it appears that the irregulars, alarmed by Brigadier Daly's descent on Tralee, determined to dispatch to their native country the Kerry men who formed the major part of the garrison of Kilmallock, and to leave merely a force of about 300 men, whose function was not to defend the place to the end, but to fight a delaying rearguard action.

This partial withdrawal of troops coincided with the final determination to attack the place. Yesterday's engagement was one between the national troops and the rearguard of the irregulars, who, considering their mission, made a creditable showing. Their two strongest posts were in quarries, situated on Kilmallock Hill and Quarry Hill respectively to the north-west and north-east of the actual town. But those places, strong against rifle and machine gun fire, proved death traps when shells from the field gun began to fall in them; for the confined space naturally doubled the bursting efforts of the high explosive.

Local information puts the casualties in these quarries at a very high figure, over 30 being reported dead in one of them, but the invariable habit of the irregulars is to conceal their losses by carrying away all dead and wounded. Only 12 deaths can be regarded as certain, though more are probable, and any estimate of the wounded would be so problematical as to be useless.

On the national side the losses were one killed and ten wounded.

TO CHARLEVILLE.

The final evacuation took place at about 3 o'clock this morning, and the irregulars succeeded in getting away to Charleville without hindrance. To do this they must have passed close to the Guards, who occupied the right flank, and their retreat must have been skilfully conducted to avoid notice, as under ordinary circumstances at least a proportion would have been cut off.

To-day Kilmallock was a quiet and much-relieved town. Mines were being removed from bridges and other approaches to the town. Everywhere one met with stories of ill-treatment by the irregulars, and, even after making allowances for the natural tendency to obtain the favour of the new occupants by vilifying the old, there must have been an inordinate amount of bullying and terrorism.

I visited all the strong posts of the irregulars, including those from which we had been ambushed two weeks ago, and noted with interest that the irregulars, as well as the national troops, are profiting by experience. In the aforesaid ambush we would all have been wiped out if a machine gun had been posted in a certain position. On examining the place to-day I saw that a carefully concealed emplacement had been made in exactly the right place, ready to welcome any future intruders.

A NIGHT MARCH.

The operations at Adare, which coincided with those at Kilmallock, were of an exciting nature. When Brigadier Slattery, in command of a detachment of the Dublin Guards, started to move from Patrickswell on Thursday night the rain was descending in steady sheets, and before they had gone half a mile the men were soaked to the skin. They chose, wisely, the unpleasant task of marching the whole way, avoiding by this means the inevitable ambush which is the predestined lot of troops moving by motor transport.

The rain teemed all night, and at 4 o'clock in the morning it was a dripping, but not dispirited, crew who approached the outskirts of Adare. Their way had been continually blocked by felled trees, which involved a considerable expenditure of labour in clearing them out of the road. They were rather short of rations. Now they had the nerve-racking and exhausting task of forcing their way through thick woods, matted with undergrowth, and supposed to be held by the enemy.

The route taken approached the town from the east, over the bridge which spans the Maigue, here a considerable and unfordable river, which slips down to the Shannon in a hardly perceptible motion between majestic willows and among long beds of bulrushes. Along the left of the road stretched the demesne of Adare Manor, thickly wooded with old spreading timber, and infested at the time with small parties of the irregulars.

Brigadier Slattery chose the wise course of deploying his men early, and by 5 a.m. made contact with those outposts, and drove them in before him. On reaching the bridge he came at once under heavy machine-gun and rifle fire, two men being killed and two wounded in an attempt to rush it. Both spans had been cut across in a way which made the passage of any wheeled vehicle, gun or armoured car, impossible, the gaps being over seven feet wide. Infantry, by walking along the parapets or jumping the openings, could just get across.

INTENSE FIRE.

The intensity of the fire from machine guns in the church, which lies some 100 yards back from the opposite bank, and from rifles in the woods, made a crossing by infantry unsupported by artillery so dangerous that it was decided to hold the position now reached, and wait for the arrival of artillery, which was on its way. The rest of the day was calm as the Maigue itself, the unbroken stillness being only marred in the one case by the rise of trout, and on the other by the solitary rifle shots which each side fired at unperiodic intervals to assure their foes of their continued existence.

One man was peculiarly busy during this lull—the gunner officer, who was searching the neighbourhood to see if he could find a good position for the gun, which had not yet arrived. Such a place was finally found, but another problem immediately arose—how to get the gun into position. The path would lie along a narrow lane, branching off at right-angles to the right of the high road, some few hundred yards short of the bridge, and exposed for the majority of its length to a concentration of fire, so intense that no horse or man was likely to live through it. The solution was ingenious.

When the gun finally arrived there arrived with it a "whippet," the name which has now come to be applied to the single-turreted Rolls-Royce armoured car. This was attached to the gun-trail, and under a whirlwind fire car and gun proceeded laboriously up the rutted lane to the chosen position, where, through soft peep-holes of feathered green boughs, the church and hotel, enemy strongholds, could be seen delicately framed. The gun was rushed into position.

HEROIC GUNNER.

The gunners crouched behind the shields, and then it was discovered, when the trail had been secured, that a fence post was in the way. One of the gunners seized an axe and went forward. A bullet hit the head of the axe. The gunner went forward. A bullet splintered the handle. The gunner went forward. A bullet tore his tunic. The gunner went forward. Two swift blows, a wrench of the stake, and the field of fire was free. Then the gunner went backward, and the gun took up his side of the argument.

The first shell hit the tower of the church; the second passed through the roof; the third exploded in the Dunraven Arms, wounding seriously, among others, the irregular leader, Mr. Hartney.

From the aforesaid buildings a precipitate retirement took place, and the gun, loading shrapnel instead of explosives, "watered" the woods with a fountain spray of round bullets. Then the infantry swept over the ruined bridge and on into the town.

But the irregulars had not waited to see the whites of their eyes. They fled, leaving behind them nearly all their store of bombs and rifles, 11 motor cars (10 Fords), the equipment of one of their leaders, and a Triumph bicycle. The fight was over. The victors' task of clearing the woods of stragglers was systematically undertaken.

THIRTY ARRESTS AT BRAY.

National troops carried out extensive operations in the Bray neighbourhood during the week-end, and captured 30 irregulars, together with a large quantity of arms and ammunition.

THE CORK PEACE PROPOSALS.

GOVERNMENT'S FIRM REPLY.

MR. COLLINS AND GUN-RULE.

STATEMENTS BY THE GOVERNMENT.

The People's Rights Association of Cork has recently been making efforts with a view to bringing about an armistice and peace, and certain correspondence has taken place between the Association and the Irish Government.

This correspondence was issued by the Government on Saturday. It consists of three documents—namely, a letter from the Secretary of the Peoples' Rights Association to General Collins, and replies thereto by General Collins and the Acting Chairman of the Government.

MR. LYNCH AND ALLEGIANCE.

QUERIES FOR MR. COLLINS.

The following is the letter addressed to General Collins:—

"Cork, August 1, 1922.

"The Committee of the People's Rights Association met at 3 p.m. to-day in the Harbour Boardroom and discussed in private session correspondence relative to the resolutions recently passed by public representatives in Cork City.

"It was decided immediately to communicate with Mr. Michael Collins the following reply received from General Liam Lynch, Chief of Staff, Fermoy:—

I wish to inform you that when the Provisional Government cease their attack on us, defensive action on our part can cease.

If the Second Dail, which is the Government of the Republic, or any other elected Assembly, carry on such Government, I see no difficulty as to the allegiance of Army.

"It was further decided to put the following queries to Mr. Michael Collins, and to request an immediate and explicit answer to lay before a public meeting summoned for Saturday:—

"1. Do you agree to arrange for such a cessation of hostilities as General Liam Lynch intimates he is prepared to accept?

"2. Do you agree to call forthwith a meeting of the Second Dail, to be followed by a meeting of the Third Dail, as previously arranged, and to allow the sovereign assembly of the people to decide on the necessity or policy of a bitter and prolonged civil war?

"A public meeting of the People's Rights Association and all available T.D.'s has been convened for next Saturday, August 5, at 3 p.m. Mr. Collins is requested to convey his final answer in time therefor.

"(Signed) MICHAEL O'CUILL."

Michael O Coilean, T.D.

THE ONLY ROAD TO PEACE.

General Collins sent the following reply:—

(Copy).

"4th August, 1922.

"Michael O'Cuill, Runaidhe, People's Rights Association, Cork.

"Your memorandum dated 1st August, addressed to me, has been delivered to me by Mr. T. P. Dowdall, who was accompanied by Father Duggan.

"With reference to the reply received from Liam Lynch, described by you as 'General, Chief of Staff, Fermoy':—

I wish to inform you that when the Provisional Government cease their attack on us, defensive action on our part can cease. If the Second Dail, which is the Government of the Republic, carry on such Government, I see no difficulty as to allegiance of Army.

"With reference also to the two categorical questions you ask me, which I also set out:—

1. Do you agree to arrange for such a cessation of hostilities as General Liam Lynch intimates he is prepared to accept?

2. Do you agree to call forthwith a meeting of the Second Dail, to be followed by a meeting of the Third Dail, as previously arranged, and to allow the sovereign assembly of the people to decide on the necessity or policy of a bitter and prolonged civil war?

"This is a time when, above all things, there should be clear thinking on the part of public representatives. The Government is sending you an official answer, as presumably your communication was meant to be addressed to the Government.

"So far as the Army is concerned, I am merely obeying the orders of my Government, and all the General Staff and soldiers of the Army are merely carrying out the instructions given in accordance with such orders.

"The Government has made it fully clear that its desire is to secure obedience to proper authority. When an expression of such obedience comes from the irregular leaders I take it there will not longer be any necessity for armed conflict. When the irregulars—leaders and men—see fit to obey the wishes of the people, as expressed through their elected representatives; when they will give up their arms and cease their depredations on the persons and property of Irish citizens, then there will be no longer need for hostilities.

"It will, I have no doubt, have been observed by your body that the Government, in connection with the prisoners taken in the recent conflict, and still being taken, have merely asked that the following form be signed:—

I promise that I will not use arms against the Parliament elected by the Irish people, or the Government for the time being responsible to that Parliament, and that I will not support, in any way, any such action. Nor will I interfere with the property or the persons of others.

"From the fact that most of the prisoners have refused to sign this form it can only be inferred that they mean to take up arms again against the Government of the Irish people. If this is the spirit which animates Liam Lynch, then I am sure your body will agree that it is very little good endeavouring to talk about terms.

"It is the first duty of a Government to secure its citizens in the exercise of their rights, and until this is done, until there is peace, security, and the free exercise of opinion, I do not see how the Government can rest without failing in this elementary duty. The rule of the gun, the shameless offences that have been committed against the rights of private people, the destruction of public and private property, the robbery of the public Exchequer—these things must end, or there is no future for this country. If we do not end them, we shall go down as being discredited people.

"In conclusion, I can only re-state what I said in my letter of 23rd July—namely, that there is not a single member among your body who is more heartily anxious to see representative government prevail in this country than I am. I will entreat your representatives to look facts squarely in the face. The time for face-saving is passed. Irregular leaders, political and military, got an opportunity of doing this over a period of seven or eight months. The issue now is very clear. The choice is definitely between the return of the British and the irregulars sending in their arms to the people's Government, to be held in trust for the people. It should not be difficult for the people's representatives to say which action they counsel.

"MICHEAL O COILEAN, General,
"Commanding-in-Chief."

GOVERNMENT'S TERMS.

The Acting Chairman of the Irish Government wrote as follows:—

"August 4, 1922.

"A Chara,—The Commander-in-Chief, General Michael Collins, has forwarded to us your communication of August 1.

"In reply to your two categorical questions we have to inform you—

"(1) The irregulars' actions are wrongly described as defensive. The existence of an armed body which claims independent authority and commits outrage on persons and property cannot be tolerated;

"(2) The functions of the Second Dail came to an end on June 30. The meeting which was to have taken place on that date would have been purely formal, for the purpose of bringing its business to a conclusion. The Sovereign Assembly of Ireland is now the Parliament elected in June last, whose authority the irregulars have flouted.

"The present military action undertaken by the Government is necessary to enforce obedience to Parliament. It will cease only when that obedience is unequivocally given. There must be no misunderstanding of what that obedience connotes.

"It means the surrender into the national armoury of all war materials.

"It means the restoration, without exception, of all seized property and money.

"It means that particulars must be furnished about bridges, roads, and railways which are or have been mined or rendered otherwise unsafe.

"The general tone of your letter, including as it does such terms as 'General Liam Lynch, Chief of Staff,' and calling the Government's action to secure obedience to law 'a bitter and prolonged civil war,' is such that we might take serious exception to it. Realising, however, that you may have been acting duress, as was applied to the Cork Examiner, we are willing to overlook it.

"We can assure you that we are anxious for peace in Ireland as are the members of your body. But that peace must be firmly established on the basis of the supremacy of the elected Government of the Irish people.—Is mise,

"ACTING CHAIRMAN.

"Michael O'Cuill, Runaidhe, People's Rights Association, Cork."

THE DECISION OF THE POLLS.

The Publicity Department, in forwarding the correspondence for publication, makes the following comments:—

"With reference to the quotation made from Mr. Lynch's letter to the People's Rights Association it is well to realise the significance of his proposals.

"The irregulars now hold in subjection a large part of Munster, including the County of Cork and large parts of Kerry, Limerick, Tipperary, and Waterford. Mr. Lynch proposes that the elected Parliament of Ireland should leave all the power of government in that area —including summary power over the lives and property of the citizens in the hands of men possessing no authority but the fact that they are armed. He demands in addition that the Dail elected in June should abrogate its sovereignty, ignore the mandate it received and base its policy entirely on the lines dictated by Mr. Lynch and his associates in utter disregard of the will of the Irish people. Finally he proposes that the irregular bands now waging war upon the people should be constituted into an army paid by the Irish people; that that army should be master and not the servant of the people, and that the Government created by the people should be allowed to function only in so far as it obeyed the orders of that army.

"The desire to ignore the decision given by the Irish people in the June elections accounts for the stress laid upon a further meeting of the Second Dail. That body ceased to be a representative body the moment the result of the election was declared. It was to have met on June 30 for purely formal reasons. It now possesses no authority whatever.

"To call the present conflict civil war is misleading. In taking the action it did, the Government was only fulfilling the executive duty entrusted to it. An armed body had usurped governmental authority, and, with it, summary powers over the lives and property of the citizens. Moreover, that armed body, possessing no authority whatever, plotted to commit Ireland to a war against the will of the people. Such proceeding was utterly incompatible with public order and security, and armed intervention, therefore, became inevitable."

AMERICAN RAIL DISASTER.

35 KILLED AND 60 INJURED.

WRECKAGE FALLS INTO RIVER.

Thirty-five persons were killed and sixty injured in a railway accident at Sulphur Springs, near St. Louis, Missouri, on Saturday night.

An express train of twelve steel coaches ran into a stationary local train made up of lighter, timber-built carriages. The speed of the express must have been very great, for messages say that the local train was telescoped from end to end and the wreckage flung over an embankment into the river.

SEVEN COACHES WRECKED.

SCENE LIKE A BATTLEFIELD.

ST. LOUIS, Sunday.

The scene of the railway accident at Sulphur Springs, in which it is now stated that 35 were killed and 60 injured last night, resembled a battlefield. A twelve, steel-coach express train on the Missouri Pacific line, which telescoped seven wooden coaches of a local train, scattered the wreckage over a wide area. Some of the coaches of the local train were forced down the embankment into the river, and several passengers were drowned; others were killed or badly injured by scalding steam from the overturned engine.

A troop of Boy Scouts, who were en route to their camp, aided in the rescue work, and helped to calm the frightened survivors. A coach containing the Scouts was smashed, and some of the boys were hurt.

Passengers who were not hurt organised rescue squads, and, with axes and picks, extricated the wounded and dead.

Three relief trains have been sent to the scene. Railwaymen on strike manned one train, while local residents aided in the work of rescue.

It is impossible to identify many of the victims, because the bodies are badly mangled. There were many heartrending scenes at the morgue. The engine driver was the only person killed on the express train, the passengers being only jolted.

The cause of the disaster has not yet been determined.—(Press Association Correspondent.)

CHASED BY POLICEMEN.

ARREST IN BELFAST.

A Belfast head constable and several policemen had an exciting chase after a man who, it is alleged, had a revolver in his possession on Saturday night.

The police were patrolling in the Henry street district in a Lancia car and two men who were standing at the corner of a street aroused their suspicion. The police got off the car, and one of the men ran away.

He was chased for a considerable distance, and it is alleged that before he was captured he threw away a revolver which he took from his pocket.

MUCH-RAIDED HOUSE.

EVEN HAIRPINS TAKEN.

The residence of Mr. E. H. Browne, Brookfield, Tullamore, has been raided on several occasions within a few weeks by irregulars. On the first occasion the wine cellar came in for particular attention, and quantities of wine, whiskey, and champagne were removed. On a subsequent date there was another visit, and more wines, etc., with clocks and bicycles, were taken.

Since then the raiders have cleared the wine cellar completely of its stock, and have taken, in addition, Mr. and Mrs. Browne's clothes and boots. Even ladies' hairpins, etc., were stolen. Blankets were also taken, as were a donkey and car, which were used in removing the drink. Mr. and Mrs. Browne have been absent for some time, but a staff of servants occupy the residence. Mr. Browne is agent to Lady Bury, owner of the Charleville estate.

HEINOUS OFFENCES.

GOVERNMENT WARNING.

The following official notice was issued by the Government last night:—

"Some of the persons engaged in the present armed opposition of the people's will have armed opposition of the people's will have added to their guilt heinous offences against humanity, as, for example, violations of the Red Cross, violations of the white flag, the use of expanding and jagged bullets and similar ammunition, which has inflicted horrible injuries on the sorely tried officers and men of the national army. The civilised world calls these offences war crimes.

"All who are concerned in such war crimes are hereby warned that no application by them for the privileged treatment given to other prisoners will be entertained."

BOMBS ON A MOTOR CYCLE.

An unexpected haul was made by national troops searching motor and other vehicles at Bray yesterday. During the afternoon a motor bicycle driven by a young man, together with a sidecar containing a young woman, was "held up" on the main road. The man was searched, but nothing was found, and the troops then proceeded to search the sidecar. It was found to be partly filled with bombs. The man and the woman were taken into custody and the cycle and sidecar were seized.

COMMANDANT SCALLY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral took place at Ballymahon on Friday of Commandant Scally, who was killed at Swinford. The remains arrived by motor lorry, and were met by a guard of honour and firing party of the 1st Midland Division. He was a son of the late Mr. Denis Scally, of Killashee. Business premises in Longford and Ballymahon were shuttered during the day as a mark of respect.

KILLED IN COUNTY KERRY.

LOSSES OF DUBLIN GUARDS.

A sequel to the recent fighting in Kerry was furnished on Saturday by the arrival in Dublin of the ss. Lady Wicklow, which had on board nine coffins containing the bodies of soldiers who lost their lives in action in the advance on Tralee. The names of the dead soldiers are:—

Private Byrne, Dublin Guards, 48 Pimlico, Dublin, killed in Spa, and the following killed at Tralee:—

Private J. Kenny, Dublin Guards.

Private Patrick Harding (19), Red Cross Unit, Dublin Guards, 14 East James's street, off Baggot street.

Private T. J. Larkin (27), Dublin Guards; Sheilmartin, Baily Howth.

Corporal Michael Farrell, No. 1 Co., 2nd Eastern Division, Machine Gunner; 6 East James's street.

Private P. O'Reilly, Dublin Guards.

Private Patrick O'Connor, Dublin Guards; Summerhill, Dublin.

Sergeant Fred Gillespie (23), B Co., 2nd Batt. Dublin Guards; 11 Kenmare Parade, N.C.R.

Corporal W. D. Carsons, 4th Co., 3rd Batt. Dublin Guards.

The appearance of the vessel in the river with her flag at half-mast attracted much attention, and her arrival was awaited by a large detachment of troops at the North Wall. As soon as she berthed opposite Commons street, Captain Fennessy and Captain Stafford went on board and took charge of the remains. Members of the public were not allowed aboard. As the remains were borne ashore, a guard of honour saluted, while a large crowd of spectators stood bareheaded. The coffins were escorted by troops to Portobello Barracks, where they were received by General Collins, Commander-in-Chief; General Mulcahy, Chief of Staff; Adjutant-General O'Sullivan, and other officers attached to General Headquarters.

A special Requiem Mass, at which all military units in Dublin will be represented, will be celebrated at Portobello Barracks this morning. The deceased soldiers will be accorded full military honours, and the funeral, which will leave the barracks for Glasnevin after Mass, will be attended by public representatives.

Friends of the deceased men will be admitted, and the Mass will be attended by officers of the Headquarters Staff and men of the Dublin units.

The funeral, which will be of a military and public character, will take place at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning from Portobello Barracks to Glasnevin.

FIRING IN GALWAY.

An outbreak of rifle and revolver fire occurred in Galway at 2.30 yesterday morning. Later it was discovered that a drunken man in the streets had discharged a revolver shot. This brought out the national troops. Some shots were fired in the air. Fortunately no one was hurt. In consequence of the actions of drunken men, the military authorities have decided to close all publichouses at 9 p.m.

ACTIVITY AT DUNDALK.

From an early hour on Saturday morning there was much military activity in Dundalk. Pedestrians and motor cars were searched. Before midnight a few isolated shots were heard in various parts of the town, but at about 3 a.m. there was a regular fusillade in the Bridge street area. It appears that a patrol passing through Bridge street was attacked, and they replied vigorously. Many of the houses in the vicinity bear marks of the conflict. So far as can be ascertained, there were no casualties.

STOLEN MOTOR CARS.

A motor car, value for £800, which was stolen for the second time within two days from the residence of its owner, Mr. Fleming, was recovered by national troops at Kingstown last night. A Chevrolet car, which had also been stolen, was traced by the troops to Williamstown road, and brought back to Kingstown.

GIRL ACCIDENTALLY WOUNDED.

On Friday night, while walking with two young women near their barracks at the coastguard station, Wicklow, two members of the national army were attacked by several men. One of the sergeants, who possessed a revolver, fired it to keep away the assailants. A bullet wounded one of the girls in the leg. When the attackers had withdrawn, the girl was conveyed to the County Hospital.

CITIZEN GUARD AT WICKLOW.

At a public meeting in Wicklow on Friday night it was decided to form a citizen guard owing to the absence of any regular police force, and a patrol of nine men was immediately put on duty. The national forces, it is said, promised co-operation, and it was decided to ask for sanction for the guard and assistance.

BOMB THROWN IN BELFAST.

A bomb was thrown in Coates street, Belfast, on Friday night just before Curfew, but no person was injured as a result of the explosion.

A lad who was frightened by the noise climbed over a wall, and, missing his footing, fell to the ground and sprained his ankle.

ARRESTS IN A HOUSE.

On Saturday evening the Belfast police found three men in the residence of Major Breakey, Chichester Park. They were placed under arrest on a charge of house-breaking.

BARBER'S HOUSE BOMBED.

At 1 o'clock on Saturday morning a bomb was hurled through the shop window of Mr. Patrick O'Connor's hairdressing establishment in Bank place, Nenagh. Mr. O'Connor was sleeping in the room immediately overhead, and had a narrow escape. Mr. O'Connor is hairdressing contractor in the local military barracks.

RAID ON A BANK.

On Saturday morning the branch office of the Royal Bank at Monkstown was raided by armed men, who threatened the officials with revolvers, searched the office, and then decamped, taking with them about £200. The raiders approached a constable who was on duty and warmed him at the point of the revolver not to stir on peril of his life. It is stated that eye-witnesses are in a position to identify the raiders, who were all young men.

ARREST IN A RESTAURANT.

On Saturday afternoon a number of soldiers of the national Army entered Messrs. Harrison's restaurant, Westmoreland street, and arrested a man whom they found in a diningroom in the upper part of the premises. The man is said to belong to the provinces.

THE LONDON CONFERENCE.

M. Poincaré and other members of the French delegation, Signor Schanzer and other Italian representatives, together with some of the Belgian delegates to the Reparations Conference, which takes place in London to-day, arrived at Victoria Station shortly after half-past seven o'clock yesterday evening. They were met by Lord Farquhar (representing the King), Mr. Lloyd George, Sir Robert Horne, and others.

It has been arranged that the first meeting of the Conference shall take place at 10 Downing street at 11 o'clock this morning.

MM. Theunis, the Prime Minister, and Jasper, the Foreign Minister, left Brussels for London yesterday morning.

FRENCH MALIGNITY.

HOW GERMANY SEES IT.

BERLIN, Sunday.

The all-engrossing topic in the newspapers to-day is the preliminary "retortion" measures which are being applied against Germany in the matter of the controversy over the Clearing House payments. The comments of the Press are anything but flattering to M. Poincaré, who is accused of nothing less than violating the law by applying sanctions before the legal date, namely, August 15, and before reaching an understanding on the subject with the Allies.

In the opinion of several newspapers, the penalties will do more harm to France than to Germany. The Vossische Zeitung says:—"France has opened the Entente Conference with a flourish of trumpets, and has thus made known that the economic aspect of the question, which, undoubtedly, militates against the course adopted, has been pushed into the background for political considerations."

The Socialist newspapers characterise the French policy as intended to depreciate further the value of the mark, and to strengthen the opponents in Germany of German peace and the Republic.

The Freiheit observes that the French currency will also be affected by the collapse of the mark, and that the London Conference will experience a further complication.

The Conservative Press express the hope that the German Government will remain firm, and, placing its confidence in Germany's undoubted right, will calmly await developments.

THE FIRST CARE.

PARIS, Sunday.

The Echo de Paris learns that the Germans have been devoting the time that has elapsed since M. Poincaré's Note was sent to Germany in removing all their property in France, particularly in Alsace-Lorraine, and sending it to Switzerland and other countries.—(Reuter.)

BOON TO TULLAMORE.

The restoration of the train service between Tullamore and Portarlington, giving a connection with main line trains, is a great boon to Tullamore from the business and every other point of view. It was many weeks since a train ran on this section, and passengers from Tullamore were compelled to hire cars to take them to railway stations in other centres which had a train service. Goods traffic was held up and business people were greatly hampered. The change for the better has created a feeling of relief and satisfaction all round.

RED FLAG HAULED DOWN.

The red flag which had floated over Tipperary Gas Works for several months has been taken down since the national troops took possession of the town. There is no gas supply owing to the shortage of coal, and the two cinemas and a printing works have closed down in consequence. The water supply, which had been cut off owing to the bursting of the main following the explosion of a mine by the retreating irregulars at a bridge near the town, has now been restored.

EARLY MORNING ARRESTS.

FOUR IRREGULAR LEADERS.

At 4 o'clock on Saturday morning national soldiers raided a cottage situated six miles from Gorey, and arrested four men. The men were armed with revolvers and automatic pistols, and there were quantities of ammunition and bombs in the place.

The prisoners gave their names as Thomas Bradshaw, Rathmines, Dublin; Patrick Flynn, Rathgar, Dublin; Patrick Casey, Ranelagh, Dublin; and Richard Sinnott, Mountingate, Clearistown. In the place was found an attaché case, filled with reports, accounts of ambushes, statements about lines of communication, and routine orders. The correspondence indicated that Bradshaw was the leader of the "3rd Eastern Division" of the irregulars; Flynn was the "Divisional Adjutant," and Sinnott the "Divisional Quartermaster."

It is surmised that these men had been sent as leaders of the irregulars after the capture of P. Fleming and his "staff."

The correspondence included a report of the recent ambush at Killurin, as well as an analysis of the position and equipment of the irregulars in the county. Four folding campbeds, mattresses and blankets, and several days' supply of food were found in the house. On the men was found a sum of £50 in notes and some silver, also a cheque for £100 7s. 2½d., drawn in favour of "Commandant" T. Barry "for grazing of Kilworth Camp." The prisoners wore Sam Brown belts and trench coats.

ATTACKS ON RAILWAYS.

EIGHT MORE OUTRAGES.

On inquiry at Kingsbridge on Saturday it was learned that a bridge between Cloughjordan and Nenagh, on the Great Southern and Western Railway, had been blown up, with the result that no trains could run beyond Cloughjordan and Birr from Dublin. It is, however, hoped that the service to Nenagh will be restored to-day.

Owing to a culvert near Milltown (Co. Galway) being blown up the train service arranged between Limerick and Claremorris can now operate only as far as Tuam. It is also reported that the pilot man was kidnapped.

The underbridge between Patrickswell and Adare was found demolished on 31st ult. Irregulars visited Patrickswell on the 31st ult. and removed the telephone instrument. They cut down the signal post at Ballingrene, also a telegraph pole, and placed them across the line. The "points" were also blocked with stones and damaged.

On both the night of the 30th ult. and early in the morning of the 1st inst. the goods store at Limerick was raided and a large quantity of goods removed, and early on Saturday morning the parcel office at Cloughjordan Station was raided and a parcel seized.

During the early hours of Saturday morning the railway bridge at Carrana, Kilconnell, about six miles on the Galway side of Ballinasloe, was blown up.

CAPTURES IN DONEGAL.

SHIRT AS WHITE FLAG.

Important captures were made by national troops in Donegal during the week-end. On Saturday morning nine irregulars were surrounded in the Fintown district and were captured. Yesterday morning another batch of irregulars was captured on Cark Mountain some distance from Letterkenny. National troops had information of the presence of this band and went out in pursuit. They came upon the irregulars in a bog. There was an exchange of shots, the irregulars firing from behind turf banks.

One of the irregulars hoisted a piece of white paper, but the signal was ignored by the national troops, as they thought that it might be a decoy. Then an irregular pulled off his shirt and waved it aloft as a signal of surrender. In the bog the national troops found seventeen irregulars. They had fourteen rifles, a number of revolvers, and a quantity of ammunition. One of the captured irregulars is Manus O'Flagherty, secretary of the Donegal Committee of Agriculture, and brother of Mr. Samuel O'Flagherty, T.D.

TOWN TENANTS AND RENTS.

At the last meeting in Dublin of the Executive of the Town Tenants' League, at which Mr. Field presided, letters were read from over forty centres urging that the time had come when a demand should be made for a reduction in present rents, which should be at least reduced to pre-war rates. Mr. Carolin said that it was quite evident that the remedy was to call upon the Irish Government to set up fair rent courts. Trade was on the decline in the country, and unless something was done the tenants would be in a bad way. Over fifty cases from Dublin City were dealt with.

The Chairman said that notwithstanding misrepresentations it should be distinctly understood by those interested that the Executive always advocated the payment of fair rents, and also the allowing of a reasonable return on expenditure; so that many house-owners and tenants had appealed to the League to carry out amicable settlements, which had been arranged in thousands of disputed cases.

ATTACK AT HOWTH.

It is reported that there was a heavy attack on Howth Barracks on Saturday night, bombs, rifles, and machine guns being used from 12.30 until 2.15 a.m. There was firing yesterday morning at about 10.30 o'clock. Reinforcements of national troops searched the district, and it is stated that two of the irregular leaders were arrested.

IRREGULARS' WARNING.

A notice has been posted up in Rahan, King's County, threatening dire consequences if statements are published by people there likely to prejudice the irregulars' cause.

SHOT AT HIS OWN DOOR.

At 6.35 o'clock yesterday evening, William Matthews, aged 35, of 20 Upper California street, Belfast, was shot through the chest. He was about to enter his own house when six shots rang out, and Matthews fell seriously wounded, shot through the back and chest.

He was taken to the Mater Hospital in a taxicab.

At six o'clock there was some firing in Sackville street, off Shankill road, but there were no casualties.

NO DEALINGS WITH SOVIET.

PARIS, Sunday.

The Japanese Embassy here issued a categorical denial of the report that Japan intends to negotiate with the Moscow Soviet. She has merely consented to negotiate with the Chita Government on the subject of the security of the lives and property of Japanese nationals in Eastern Siberia evacuated by the Japanese troops.—(Reuter.)

INTERNATIONAL SWIMMING.

PARIS, Sunday.

The following is the result of the Grand Prix de Paris for International Swimming, over a hundred-metre course:—1st, Van Schelle, of Brussels, Champion of Belgium and England; 2nd, Padou, of Tourcoing; 3rd, Haskins, of London. Van Schelle and Padou were level with one another, when the fifty metres was reached, but Van Schelle took the lead towards the end of the race, and thus gained the victory, his time being 1 min. 17 1-5 secs.

The Australian Federal Congress of the Returned Soldiers' League has passed a resolution, strongly deprecating the advocacy of coloured immigration, and agreeing to co-operate vigorously with the Federal and State Governments, in the introduction of new British settlers.

GERMAN MURDER CLUBS.

PROFESSOR EINSTEIN'S DISCOVERY.

BERLIN, Saturday.

The Leipziger Neueste Nachrichten publishes a report that Professor Einstein had cancelled his promise to deliver a lecture on the Relativity on the occasion of the centenary celebrations of the Society of German Philosophers and Physicians, on the ground that he was going abroad for some months. This intimation, the journal states, caused a considerable stir in learned circles, as Professor Einstein's reply was received shortly after the murder of Dr. Rathenau, and it is stated that his sudden decision not to give the promised lecture was the result of his having learned that he was also on the list of those persons whose death had been decided upon by murder organisations.

As the result of the arrest of a great number of the members of these societies, and of the disclosures which have been made as to their composition, efforts are now being made to persuade Professor Einstein to return to Germany in time to attend the centenary celebrations.

SOVIET PERSECUTION.

SENTENCED PRIESTS TO BE RETRIED.

BERLIN, Sunday.

The All-Russian Executive Committee has cancelled the death sentence passed by the Petrograd revolutionary tribunal on the Metropolitan, Benjamin, Professor Novitsky and others, and has instructed the Commissioner for Justice to order the case to be retried by the same tribunal, but with new prosecutors and before new judges.

The Moscow revolutionary tribunal will shortly try Andrei, Bishop of Ufa, for counter-revolutionary agitation. He was arrested in February, 1921, after having preached a sermon, in which he exhorted the peasants to form unions. —The Times Correspondent.

GORDON-BENNETT RACE.

NINETEEN BALLOONS START.

GENEVA, Sunday.

The start for the Gordon-Bennett Balloon Race, which was given at half-past four this afternoon, was watched by more than 50,000 persons.

Nineteen balloons started in the following order:—1, P. Armbruster (Switzerland); 2, Ernest Allen (Great Britain); 3, Ernest Demnyter (Belgium); 4, Oscar Westwer (United States); 5, Commander Barbanti (Italy); 6, Maurice Bienaim (France); 7, P. M. Sanz (Spain); 8, L. Ansermier (Switzerland); 9, Griffith Brewer (Great Britain); 10, Lieutenant Labrousse (Belgium); 11, R. E. Honeywell (United States); 12, A. Guglielmetti (Italy); 13, G. Cormier (France); 14, P. O. Mueller (Switzerland); 15, Captain Georges (Belgium); 16, W. Reed (United States); 17, G. Valle (Italy); 18, Duboiz (France); 19, E. Magdalena (Spain).

At the start the Meteorological Office gave the wind as south-west, in the direction of Austria and Bulgaria.

MONARCHIST EMBLEMS.

ORDER FOR REMOVAL FROM GERMAN BUILDINGS.

BERLIN, Saturday.

The Prussian Ministers of the Interior and Finance have issued a decree ordering the removal of all Monarchical emblems of Sovereignty from the interior and exterior of all communal and State buildings, as well as the signboards, milestones and frontier stations. Exception is made in the case of buildings where the removal of these emblems would destroy the architectural value.

Portraits, busts and statues of the King of Prussia, his wife, brother, sisters and descendants, must be removed from the buildings.

A decree of the Minister of the Interior prohibits the hoisting of the white and red colours. —(Reuter.)

LANDRU CASE RECALLED.

There is, says the Daily Telegraph's Paris Correspondent, another echo of the Landru affair. During the trial of the French Bluebeard the well of the court was filled with the furniture belonging to his eleven victims. These were the pieces of conviction, and after the trial they were stowed in a waiting room in the courthouse at Versailles. It is expected that there will be a large attendance at the sale, which will take place in October, and as the waiting room will not be large enough to hold the morbidly-minded people anxious to obtain relics of the "Sire of Gambais," the question of holding the sale in the court room where Landru was tried and sentenced to death is discussed. The articles to be sold are of a heterogeneous character, and besides furniture and the famous kitchen stove in which it was assumed Landru burnt the bodies of his victims, there are meshes of false hair and sets of teeth. Singularly enough, none of the relatives of the murdered women has come forward to claim the furniture. It will remain for the Minister of Justice to decide whether the sale can be held in the Versailles Assize Court.

IRREGULAR RULE.

LIFE IN CARRICK-ON-SUIR.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

CARRICK-ON-SUIR, Saturday.

Up to the Waterford conflict the conditions here had been normal, but after the success of the national troops the irregular occupants of the old police barracks, numbering 15 or 16, were joined by others. Some of the latter had retreated from Waterford. The destruction of sections of the railway line now began, and the two bridges over the Suir leading to the County Waterford were partly demolished. Thus the town was virtually isolated. The Dillon Bridge, named after Mr. John Dillon, was a handsome iron structure. It was erected in the 'eighties at a cost of several thousand pounds. With a view to saving this bridge several prominent townspeople approached the irregular leaders, but they were informed rather curtly that the destruction of the bridge was a military necessity. The second bridge to be destroyed was constructed in the fourteenth century.

MR. DE VALERA'S VISITORS.

Soon after this work had been completed Mr. de Valera arrived. He was joined by Messrs. Dan Breen, Seamus Robinson, and Denis Lacey. The last-named was the leader of the irregulars in the conflict outside the town. They established their headquarters in the A.O.H. buildings, and were visited here by Mr. Erskine Childers, Madame Markievicz, and Dr. Kathleen Lynn, who remained for some days. A few days before their arrival the big R.I.C. barracks and the Courthouse adjoining, which had been occupied by the irregulars for a considerable time, were burned. The workhouse and hospital were then seized and utilised as headquarters instead of the A.O.H. hall. The majority of the inmates and patients, of whom there were about 80, were removed to Clonmel. Some were sent to their friends' homes, and a few to the fever hospital close by. All the workhouse officials, including the nursing sisters and nuns, left the institution, and the Clerk of the Union set up temporary offices elsewhere.

For some days before the occupation of the workhouse, the irregulars were being billeted on the residents of the town. In cases where the occupants of a house intimated that they were unable to provide sleeping accommodation or meals, they were instructed to make provision for the upkeep of one or two men in the local hotels, and all bills there incurred were debited to them. There was nothing for it in such cases but to comply with the novel demand. It may be mentioned, however, that all the bills have not yet been paid.

FOODSTUFFS SEIZED.

Among the occupants of the seized workhouse were Mr. de Valera and a number of the irregulars' leaders, most of them Cork and Kerry men. The seizure of the food and clothing now began. Boots formed a heavy item of the clothing taken. Cattle and sheep were seized from a number of local farmers and slaughtered in the town. It was quite a frequent sight to see carcases of beef or mutton being taken in motor cars to the workhouse, or to the irregulars at Ninemilehouse. In almost every case where food was taken, the irregulars asked for the bill setting out the value of the articles.

On last Wednesday mines were exploded under the already partly demolished railway bridges at Pill road and John street, over the main road to Waterford and Callan, thus completing the destruction. On the previous day all the river bridges in the district had been destroyed. Not content with their efforts in this direction, the irregulars, before evacuating the town, had another series of mines exploded under the same bridges.

In one of those the water main connections with the reservoir were destroyed, and the water was turned into the river. Later, when the irregulars had left the town, the supply was cut off at its source. The town at present is in considerable difficulty, and there is scarcely sufficient to supply the people for two more days.

Early on Wednesday morning, on the approach of the national troops, the irregulars turned out to fight the engagement, which I have described in an earlier message. At about 5 p.m. the main body returned and marched to the workhouse, to join the party of about 50, who had been left behind. Shortly before 9 o'clock on Thursday morning the entire body of irregulars, numbering close on 200, left the town, and went in the direction of Clonmel. After they had gone some distance several separated from the main body, and went towards Co. Waterford to the hills which overlook Carrick-on-Suir.

THE ONLY WAY.

For three weeks now the town has been completely isolated, and it was only an occasional canal service with Waterford which saved the people from actually starving. It was with considerable risk that one travelled in this way. One or two boats containing foodstuffs were fired on by the irregulars in mid-river, and some of the food was taken from the boats.

During the occupation of the town only one mail arrived. When this mail was about to be delivered messengers were sent by the irregulars to the postmaster, who was ordered to send all the letters and parcels to the workhouse to be censored. After this the Postal authorities at Waterford dispatched no further mail to the town.

I have learned that the townspeople protested vehemently against the destruction of the Dillon Bridge. An angry mob gathered, and pelted the irregulars with stones. The irregulars, led by Mr. Dan Breen, drove the people back, saying that they were now paying for voting for the Free State. The bridge was then blown up.

Commandant-General Prout has fixed the hours during which the public-houses may remain open as between 10 a.m. and noon, and again between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m.

SNIPERS SILENCED.

Sunday.

The troops remained in undisputed possession of Carrick. During the week-end the townspeople moved about with a sense of security, and though business is still virtually at a standstill, it is expected that the presence of the national forces will have reviving effect in this direction as the week advances.

Sniping from the hills behind the town, where a few irregulars were still posted, continued during Friday evening, a civilian named John Hurly being wounded, but not seriously. On Saturday the snipers' positions were located and quietness has since reigned.

The districts immediately bordering the town have been scoured by scouting parties of the troops, but without any result. There is reason to believe, however, that some of the irregulars have returned to their positions about Kilonery, the scene of Wednesday's engagement, but their number is not sufficient to afford very much embarrassment to the national troops operating here.

Farmers and others on the County Waterford side of the town of Carrick have been seriously inconvenienced by the partial destruction of the two river bridges. During their occupation of the town, the irregulars, I am informed, took no pains to conceal their intention of making the farmers suffer for their support of the Treaty in the recent elections. "The people are against us, and we are against the people," one of the local leaders is reported to have said.

Reports from Clonmel show that the people are suffering much hardship from the irregular occupation. Locally the town is said to be the headquarters of the irregulars. Clonmel is only about thirteen miles from Carrick, while Kilsheelan, also held by the irregulars, is almost within easy range of an 18-pounder. By capturing Clonmel the troops would hold the heart of the irregular activities in this county. The closing up of Messrs. Cleeve's factories in Carrick and Clonmel has created further distress among the poor people.

MAURETANIA SALUTES THE KING.

The Mauretania, the first North Atlantic liner inspected by the King, when passing the Majestic, which vessel was being inspected by His Majesty in Cowes Roads at 1 p.m. on Saturday participated in an incident quite unique in the annals of shipping. Just as the Mauretania was to pass the Majestic her engines were stopped, and the bugler on the bridge sounded "The Attention" and then sounded "The General Salute." The ship's company were formed in line from fore to aft standing at attention and the officers came to the salute. At the same time the Mauretania dipped her ensign. During the salute the Mauretania's band, which was drawn up on the sun deck, played the National Anthem.

IF YOUR DOCTOR HAD INDIGESTION

He wouldn't attempt to get rid of the pain by deadening it—he'd remove the harmful acid which is the cause. This acid is instantly neutralised by Bisurated Magnesia, which preparation doctors prescribe, whilst hospitals use it with conspicuous success. It'll do you good, too, if you've any stomach trouble like indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis or wind. Bisurated Magnesia is obtainable at all chemists in either powder or tablet form, and costs but a trifle—but you must be quite sure that it is "Bisurated" Magnesia, for it's the one thing that will give you instant relief.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

ARGENTINE OIL.

The Monthly Review of the London and River Plate Bank' states that the chief item of interest in connection with Argentine oil must be considered the reported discovery of petroleum in the vicinity of Bahia Blanca. It should, however, be borne in mind that the fact of many prospectors' licences having been taken out, does not necessarily imply the presence of oil in commercial quantities. The importance of any rich strike in that region is too evident to need mention. On the Government fields the weekly yield keeps fairly constant, at 6,000 tons, and there has been much discussion of the administrative system, various changes being foreshadowed. It is, however, unlikely that much will be done in this direction until the new President takes office towards the end of the year. From the Northern provinces, and especially in the neighbourhood of San Pedro and Julyy and Ledesma, reports as to oil are encouraging, while on the Sosneado field in Mendoza, petroliferous strata were tapped at 114 metres depth. This region lies 150 kilometres from the Pacific Railway Company's San Rafael terminus, and 180 kilometres from the Western Railway Company's railhead at Colonia Alvear. American capitalists are said to be interested in its development. On the Rivadavia fields the Astra Company have registered a subsidiary concern, styled the Sirius, covering a new area on which two wells have already been sunk with success. It should, however, be mentioned that the export of 7,500 tons to Germany, mentioned in last month's "Review," was purely experimental. It is not likely to be repeated until full reports are available upon the chemical and commercial results of the initial shipment.

BOVRIL COMPANY'S GENEROUS CONCESSION.

Holders of the Preferred Ordinary shares of the Argentine Estates of Bovril, Limited, have received a tempting offer from the directors of Bovril, Limited (says Truth). The Argentine company incurred a net loss of £188,760 in the past year, owing principally to the slump in cattle values, and no dividend could be paid on the Preferred shares, which received 7 per cent. in the previous year. In the ordinary course, the shareholders would have had to bear the full effects of this adversity, but the directors of Bovril, Limited, have taken the exceptional course of offering holders of 500 Argentine Estates of Bovril Preferred shares of 11s. each for the first 100, and 10s. each for the remaining 400. These shares were recently dealt in at 8s. 1½d. to 8s. 6d. Shareholders are given the option of repurchasing the shares on the terms offered by Bovril, Limited. The Argentine company will have to meet its Debenture interest and extinguish a debit balance of £167,000 before the question of resuming dividends on the Preferred shares can be considered, and the directors of Bovril, Limited, frankly admit that the immediate outlook for the Argentine subsidiary is not bright, as provision will probably have to be made for the further slump in cattle values since the date of the accounts.

SLIGHT CHECK TO CHEMICAL MARKET IMPROVEMENT.

The improved tendency in the chemical market which has been obtruding itself quietly for some time appears to be experiencing a slight check just at the moment (writes our Liverpool Commercial Correspondent). The market, as a matter of fact, is suffering from the usual midsummer dulness, but the chief influence in checking the steady run of trade has been the upheaval among the Continental exchanges, which has undermined confidence not merely in the chemical trade alone, but in those industries which are the chief customers of heavy commodities. In an ordinary sense, the checking of imports due to the collapse of the Continental exchange would have had the effect of reducing competition in the home market, but the general trade outlook is so uncertain that consumers are indisposed to enter into any large commitments for delivery ahead. While paper manufacturers are said to be working fairly well, the cotton trade is taking much less material than usual. The necessity of assisting in a revival of trade has so influenced chemical manufacturers that they have voluntarily—as from the beginning of this month—made a reduction in running contracts for bleaching powder and caustic soda by 5s. per ton. The best reports are with regard to the demand for alum, which is in good request, and the quotations of which show an upward tendency. Chlorine products are not much wanted, but the available supplies of caustic soda seem to be rather on the small side, so that export orders are satisfied at a good price. The export demand for all heavy chemicals has been fairly satisfactory for some time, but just now is rather quiet.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

ARMITAGE B.S.—Dividend 7½ per cent. on the Ordinary Shares.

COATBRIDGE GAS.—Dividend in accordance with sliding scale at the rate of £11 5/- per cent. per annum on the Original Stock, and of £7 17/6 per cent. per annum on the four issues of £10 shares, all less tax.

WARD AND GOLDSTONE.—Net profit £15,352, of which income and Corporation profits tax will absorb £6,622; balance from last year, after final adjustment of excess profits duty, £6,346. Total £15,075. Interim dividends, already paid, at 7½ on Pref. and Ord. Balance now available £9,808. The directors propose placing £2,000 further to reduction of preliminary expenses. Amount forward £7,808.

MOSS EMPIRES.—The directors have issued a circular regretting that they do not feel justified in paying a dividend on the Ord. Shares now, the company's business during the nine months to the end of last year having been affected by adverse conditions of trade and employment. Since the commencement of the current half-year business has improved, and the directors hope to recommend a dividend at the close of the year's accounts.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Having indulged rather optimistically in prospects of cheap money, Lombard street's experience during July has been a rude awakening. Herein is the cause of the appreciably stiffer terms exacted from the Government in the week's Treasury bill and bond tenderings. With the market not certain from day to day whether the pressure for loans will compel borrowing from the Bank on the usual onerous terms, the rate of £2 2/10.76d. per cent. discount charged for the three-month Treasury bills seems reasonable enough (writes the Evening Standard). But the comparison with £1 13/6.41d. a week ago is certainly striking. As to the Four-and-a-Half per Cent. Treasury Bonds, the price of £100 14/10.4d. paid a week ago was unduly high, and "too good to last," and the present average of £100 6/5.42d. per £100 bond looks a more serious business proposition.

Judging from the striking recovery in the quotation, now 34½, for Grand Trunk Pacific 4 per cent. Debentures, the market is confident that a measure of success will attend the action initiated by Sir Francis Harrison-Smith on behalf of the bondholders to obtain from the Canadian Government acknowledgment of its responsibility for the due payment of interest.

Official returns of 34 of the principal tramway undertakings in the United Kingdom, as published by The Tramway and Railway World, for the week ended July 22 give total receipts of £345,288, or £30,328 less than in the corresponding week of last year. The total length of track included in the returns was 1,948 miles. Receipts this year were at the rate of £177 5/- per mile of single track, and last year at the rate of £192 16/5, thus showing a decrease for the week of £15 11/5 per mile open.

While the holiday season lasts there is little prospect of real activity in the market (says the Sunday Times). Looking further ahead, however, by which time foreign exchanges may be more settled, the investing public will see, doubtless, better trading conditions. With such an expansion, Industrials will move up with more freedom. Regarding Gilt-edged securities, not a few financial authorities expect to see even a 2½ per cent. Bank rate in the autumn in the event of international affairs shaping favourably. With the prospect of a further adjustment of monetary values, Government and other first-class stocks should continue to appreciate.

In connection with Home Rails, the publication of the Eastern grouping scheme has shown that there is plenty still to go for on the part of the investing public who will exercise a little patience and take up their purchases. North-Eastern, Great Central Preferred, Great Northern Deferred, and "Brums" all have special attractions of their own.

FOX RAIDS POULTRY RUN.

A fox has raided a poultry run almost in the heart of Leeds, and destroyed 44 head of poultry.

A Strasbourg telegram announces that six German agitators were expelled from the town on Saturday night.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

VERY SHORT LOANS EASIER.

MARKS WEAK.

On Friday the market made pretty adequate arrangements for the holidays, so that conditions on Saturday were decidedly more comfortable. Money until Wednesday, however, was rather wanted on account of the arrangements for repayment of the Bank loan. Up to 2 per cent. was paid for such accommodation. On the other hand, very short loans were easy, money until Tuesday, after being obtainable at 1½, finishing up 1 per cent.

Discount rates came back a little, Friday's improvement apparently having been carried too far. Six months' bills were quoted 2½-2⅝ per cent., and shorter-dated paper 2½-2⅜ per cent. The raising of the "Tap" rate from 1⅞ to 1⅞ per cent., of course, merely follows the higher average for the Treasury bills. The new bills were offered at 2 per cent.

Silver was dull and unchanged at 35½d. spot; forward fell ⅛d. to 35d.

Fears of action by France imparted a weak tone to the foreign exchanges, but there were no violent movements. The mark rate weakened to 3,450. One of the most favourable features in the situation is the firmness of sterling. Austrian crowns improved. The following are closing rates:—

CANADIAN CATTLE.

SCOTTISH BREEDER'S OPINION

Mr. Wallace, of Balcairn, a shorthorn breeder, speaking in Aberdeenshire on the Canadian cattle question, said that the people let down would be those in London, who would get prime Scottish meat from Canada. Few Canadian cattle would come over when America removed the tariff wall. Canadians would send their cattle into America rather than pay heavy freightage to Great Britain.

SOCIAL DEMOCRATS.

ATTITUDE TO FRANCE.

The Social Democratic Federation held its annual Conference in London yesterday.

Mr. H. W. Lee, editor of Justice, in his opening address, said that, looking back, they could see that the whole-hearted efforts in the past for Socialist unity were largely futile. Wage reductions were the order of the day, and trade unions could not dam back the tide. The new Trade Union Bill was a distinct attempt to cripple the growing political power and influence of the Labour Party. The hopelessness of purely industrial action at a time of economic depression swung the Labour pendulum back to political action. And what was happening? Their opposition to Communists was based on the fact that the latter supported and acted in accordance with instructions from the Bolshevist Third International at Moscow. It was necessary to utter a word of warning against much of the far from uninterested propaganda against France now being carried on. They were not supporters of Poincaré, and recognised that no good, but much harm, could easily arise from penetration into Germany.

Mr. T. Kennedy, M.P., said that the weight of the Labour Party opinion, in the House of Commons and outside it, was anti-French. He would go so far as to say that it was pro-German.

An amended resolution, opposing the present policy of withdrawal from co-operation with France, and desiring to see firm, open, and friendly relations between the two countries, with the full understanding and approval of their peoples, was adopted.

DEVASTATED TOWN.

TYPHOON DAMAGE AT SWATOW.

HONG KONG, Saturday.

Devastation caused by a typhoon which visited Swatow on Wednesday is described in a wireless telegram from the steamer Kwaisang. Swatow, says the message, has been partly wrecked. Messrs. Jardine, Matheson, and Company's staff is safe. The firm's godown stock has been badly damaged. Efforts are being made to effect repairs, but labour is not available for the time being. The steamers Tungshong and Shantung, which were wrecked south of Swatow, are exposed to danger from pirates. There has been heavy loss of life among the natives.—(Reuter.)

Two soldiers of the 2nd Battalion South Lancashire Regiment, who were sentenced at Birkenhead to fourteen days' imprisonment with hard labour for desertion, were stated to have worked their passage out to Egypt and to have returned as stowaways

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSED STRONG.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Saturday.

Stocks opened firm, and advanced on prospects of continued easy money and a brisk investment demand for high grade shares, due to confidence of there being an early solution of the pending Labour troubles. Railroads advanced 1 to 2 points, and Corn Products, Tobaccos, and Merchandise issues were also higher. The market closed strong.

GUN THAT FIRED THE FIRST SHOT.

According to the Admiralty records, the first British round in the great war was fired from one of the guns of His Majesty's ship Lance, on August 5, 1914, at eleven a.m., when His Majesty's ships Lance, Landrail and Amphion sighted the German minelayer Konigen Luise and attacked her, sinking her at noon. This gun is preserved in the Imperial War Museum, Crystal Palace, and has been decorated with a laurel wreath in honour of the fact that it drew the first blood of the war.

The swimmer Pouilley left Cape Grisnez to swim the Channel at 8 o'clock on Friday morning. There was a heavy mist. After swimming for nearly four hours, and being then six miles north-west of Calais Pier, he abandoned the attempt.

PRINTING TRADE DISPUTE.

LESS UNEMPLOYMENT.

The Press Association states that a joint statement is issued by the Federation of Master Printers and the Newspaper Society in regard to the present position of the dispute with a section of their workpeople.

The unfortunate cessation of work in provincial printing establishments and provincial newspapers, following upon the rejection on a ballot vote by the members of the Typographical Association of a decision of the Industrial Court still continues.

The number of men not at work is lessening as the result of very considerable numbers returning to work on the terms of the award, in spite of the instructions of the Executive of their Union. This process had its beginning in the smaller market towns, but is now spreading into the larger industrial centres. Within the last day or two the Typographical Association members employed by the Birmingham Gazette, the Western Morning News, at Plymouth; the Northern Echo, at Darlington, and the North-Eastern Daily Gazette, at Middlesbrough, have returned to work on the terms of the award at the reduced rate of pay, which became operative on the pay-day in the week ending 22nd ultimo.

On the other hand, there is another tendency operating which is likely, in the very near future, to increase the number of men out of work. A number of the larger provincial daily papers, who had for various reasons been unable to make the first reduction on the pay-day in the week provided by the award, have given their men fourteen days' notice of their intention to put the award into operation. The notices were accompanied by a covering letter, which stated:—

"As the repudiation by the Typographical Association of the Industrial Court award has raised a point of principle, vital not only to the printing industry, but to all others, the directors feel compelled to issue formal notice in conformity with the terms of such award."

This action of the Yorkshire daily papers at the end of last week has now been followed by similar action by the Liverpool daily papers. The Liverpool Post and Mercury, the Liverpool Journal of Commerce, and the Liverpool Courier have given these notices to every man, not only in their newspaper, but in their general printing establishments.

The employers claim that their position has been considerably strengthened by these developments.

It is not disputed that, in the early stages of the strike, there was considerable disorganisation in the trade, and particularly in the newspaper houses. It was realised, however, that the dispute had resolved itself into a question of principle, even more than of wages, with the result that firms who found themselves able to continue their work placed their resources at the disposal of firms less happily situated.

Newspapers which were appearing in attenuated form are now being published with their normal number of pages, and many urgent orders in the general printing trade are being executed without difficulty.

At Bristol, in the middle of the week, some 50 men resumed their work with Messrs. Mardon, Son, and Hall, and on Friday 81 men resumed work with Messrs. E. S. and A. Robinson. In both these establishments the number of Typographical Association men employed is very small relatively to the total numbers whose employment would have been prejudiced by the absence of this class of labour.

AN IMPORTANT POINT.

There is one important point of which the members of the Typographical Association seem to have lost sight. The present cessation of work represents a loss to them in wages of £80,000 a week, and as the other workpeople in the industry become involved the loss in wages will soon reach a quarter of a million, and other industries will speedily feel the effect.

It is understood that the members of the Typographical Association employed in Warwick and Leamington offices have agreed to return to work under the terms of the award of the Industrial Court. The newspapers concerned are resuming publication as usual.

The members of the Typographical Association employed at the Worcester Journal and Daily Times returned to work on Saturday on the terms of the award of the Industrial Court.

After negotiations during the week, the Typographical Association men on the staff of the Eastern Daily Press, Norwich, by a majority vote, decided to resume work on Sunday night on the terms of the Industrial Court award, with a provisional concession to be made after the final award has become operative.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

LITERARY CIVIL SERVANTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Permit me to correct a few mis-statements and to amplify the few particulars in reference to Robert Burns which appeared under the above heading in your issue of the 5th inst. No man, save Napoleon, has been more written about than Burns, and all the biographers, even the most eminent, have blundered hopelessly in describing the poet's career in the Excise. He entered the service through the influence of Mr. Graham, of Fintry, in March, 1788, where he remained until his death in July, 1796. In the autumn of 1789 he was appointed officer of the district in which he lived. So overjoyed was he with his appointment that he forthwith wrote to Miss Chalmers in a strain which leaves no doubt as to the pleasure which the news of the appointment gave him. "I have chosen this, my dear friend, after mature deliberation. The question is not at what door of Fortune's palace shall we enter in, but which door does she open to us. I was not likely to get anything to do. I got this without hanging on or mortifying solicitation." Burns evidently chose the Excise as being the best after "mature deliberation"; and who can say that he "never relished his duties as ganger" when, as he himself says in his letter to Bishop Geddes, "he did not intend to borrow honour from any profession"? So much, then, for this part of your contributor's statement.

Let me now turn to the "imprudent political speech" which, in the opinion of your correspondent, debarred the poet from future promotion in the service. In July, 1790, Burns was promoted to a division in Dumfries, and continued there until he died. From official sources at our disposal we find that he was recommended for promotion to the rank of examiner on the 27th January, 1791. The great political inquiry which Lockhart and Currie have made such a mountain of, although only a molehill, took place in January, 1793. It was nothing. Burns was reported for taking a too prominent part in the politics of the time. The Commissioners made inquiry into the "indiscretions" of the poet, with the result that Burns was acquitted; but the words of acquittal—viz., "To act, not to think; to be silent and obey"—were as absurd as they were cruel. In fact, the "sentence" of acquittal was a triumph for Burns, while the then Commissioners have been pilloried for all time.

After the political inquiry we find that the poet, instead of being "dismissed" or his promotion debarred, was actually appointed temporary supervisor in December, 1794; and, had he lived, he would probably have been appointed collector in 1798. Mr. A. Findlater, the poet's supervisor, writes thus in February, 1834:—"Had Burns been subjected to a Board's censure, I must, ex-officio, have known of it, as it could not have been concealed from me. . . . I say without hesitation that Burns would, had he lived, have been promoted in due course, and that in a shorter period of service than any of his predecessors." So much, then, for all that has been written to the detriment of the poet and his promotion in the Excise.—Yours, etc.,

"J. P. G."

THE HIBERNIAN BIBLE SOCIETY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—May I call the attention of your readers to the advertisement of the Hibernian Bible Society asking holders of receipts since March 31st to send them for inspection, and subscribers and others to send their addresses? As all our books were completely destroyed in the fire in Sackville street, it is only by this courtesy on the part of our helpers that we can reconstruct our accounts for April to June and our list of addresses. Clergy of all denominations will greatly assist by putting up this advertisement in the church porch for a few weeks, and calling the attention of the congregation to it.

Our new Depot, at 20 Lincoln place, is now open for the sale of Scriptures, and all applications for grants will be considered on the same conditions as hitherto. But, in addition to the capital loss (for which we hope ultimately to get compensation), and the destruction of treasures that cannot be replaced, the burning of the Bible House involves both a loss of income and an increase of expenditure, to meet which we urgently appeal for generously increased support.—Yours, etc.,

F. CECIL LONG,
Deputation Secretary.

SHOOTING AT BANK OF ENGLAND.

GRENADIER GUARDSMAN WOUNDED.

George Harpan, of the 1st Grenadier Guards, who was on duty on Friday night at the Bank of England, was, early on Saturday morning, found near one of the bullion rooms at the Bank with a bullet wound in the jaw.

He was at once taken to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, where he lies in a precarious condition.

The affair occurred in the morning, shortly before Harpan was to be relieved. At the time he was the sentry on duty near the Princes Gate.

He is a young man in the early twenties. The sound of a shot was heard by his fellow-Guardsmen, who were in the guardroom at the Bank, and these men promptly rushed to the post, where they found him with terrible injuries to his face and bleeding profusely. He was conscious, but did not explain what had happened.

On arrival at the hospital he was still in possession of his senses.

On his admission to hospital at 6.15 a.m. it was found that a bullet had passed through his mouth and blown away a large portion of his right cheek. A successful operation was performed, and, although Harpan's condition is described as critical, he is expected to recover.

MINUTE BOOK ENTRIES.

CHARGE AGAINST COUNTY OFFICIAL.

A Dail Eireann Local Government Inspector held an inquiry last week in Longford Courthouse into a charge preferred against Mr. Daniel Leavey, who was recently appointed an Assistant County Surveyor.

The allegation was that Mr. Leavey altered a minute of the proceedings of Longford District Council on June 16 last so as to read—"Mr. Leavey's certificates and testimonials were forwarded to the Local Government Board with the minutes of the 18th of March last." The alteration alleged was that on the 10th of May last the words "certificates and" were inserted in the minute.

The evidence of Miss Wilson, clerk, was that Mr. Leavey came to the office on May 10 and asked for the minute book to make some extracts. He returned it to her the next day, and she saw that an alteration had been made which she could not certify as correct, and considered it her duty to report the matter to the Inspector. She wrote to Mr. Leavey, and subsequently Mr. Mahon, a law clerk, came in with the extracts, and explained the matter by saying that he made the copy in a hurry, it being a fair day, and asked if the words were taken out would she certify it. She said that she would, and did so.

In cross-examination by Mr. Delany, who defended, witness said she never saw the entry before that date. Her reason for saying so was that the ink was quite different. She did not like to tell Mr. Leavey about the alleged alteration. She knew the charge was a serious one, but did not mention it in her letter. She told Mr. Mahon a mistake had been made, and she crossed out the words objected to.

Mr. Mahon said that he made copies of minutes on previous occasions, and the copies were the same as the present, including the words "certificates and." When he went up with the documents Miss Wilson did not call his attention to the words, nor did she indicate any suggestion of tampering with the minute book. He thought what she referred to was an ordinary typist's error.

Mr. Leavey, examined by Mr. Delany, said that he was appointed engineer to the Council in 1916, when he produced both medical and age certificates, and a certificate from the college in Glasnevin, as well as testimonials. He passed the examination, got the position, and on the strength of that was subsequently appointed engineer in Granard, Ballymahon, and Coole, having copied minutes in the latter cases. In the first two cases Mr. McCann (the late Clerk) dictated them to him and they copied them. He saw the words "certificates and" in the minutes on these occasions, but on the present occasion when he brought the book to Miss Wilson she offered to certify them there and then, but he said no; that he would prefer they should be compared with the book, and let her certify them at her leisure next day.

He got a letter from the clerk saying there were mistakes in two of the documents. They went to Mr. Mahon. He found that the end of one of the documents was the commencement of another matter that did not refer to the question. He never altered the minutes or caused them to be altered. This copy and the three previous copies are in the custody of the Local Government Department.

In cross-examination by Mr. Stack, Local Government Inspector, Mr. Leavey said that the documents that he previously copied were in the hands of the Local Government Department and they had not turned them up.

Mr. Delany addressed the Inspector on the general question, and laid stress on the fact that the whole matter was a difference of ink. If the previous copies taken were produced it would clear the matter up. He emphasised the fact also that, if Mr. Leavey wanted to alter the books, he would have agreed to Miss Wilson's offer to certify for the copy when he brought back the book, instead of saying that he wanted her to compare them.

The inquiry then terminated.

A Correctional Tribunal at Nice has sentenced a British subject, by default, to 18 months' imprisonment and a fine of £2,040, for having cashed worthless cheques amounting to £23,200.

IRISH VITAL STATISTICS.

TWELVE IRISH TOWN DISTRICTS.

The Registrar-General gives the following return of births and deaths for the week ending July 29:—

The births and deaths registered in the Dublin Registration Area and in eleven provincial urban districts of the Irish Free State, with the annual rates per 1,000 of the population represented thereby, which, for the purposes of these returns, is estimated at 662,256, are given in Table I. The deaths from all causes appertaining to the undermentioned areas for last week and for the past four weeks, respectively, were equal to the following annual rates per 1,000 of the population:—

Twelve town districts, 12.4 and 13.5; Dublin Registration Area, 11.1 and 14.2; Dublin City, 9.7 and 14.3; Cork 6.8 and 10.4; Limerick, 31.1 and 14.2; and Waterford, 24.7 and 14.3.

The deaths from certain epidemic diseases registered in the 12 town districts during last week were equal to an annual rate of 0.6 per 1,000. Among the 23 deaths from all causes for Limerick are 2 from measles, and among the 9 deaths for Galway is one from diarrhœa and enteritis of a child under 2 years.

In the Dublin Registration Area the total number of births registered during the week amounted to 202—105 boys and 97 girls—and the deaths to 98—51 males and 47 females.

The deaths registered, omitting the deaths (numbering 7) of persons admitted to public institutions from localities outside the Dublin Registration Area, represent an annual rate of mortality of 11.1 per 1,000 of the population. During the thirty weeks ending with Saturday last, the death-rate averaged 19.7, and was 1.7 below the mean rate for the corresponding portions of the ten years, 1912-1921. The rate for all deaths registered during the thirty weeks was 21.3, and for the corresponding period of the preceding ten years 23.0.

Included in the 91 deaths appertaining to the area are two from whooping-cough, one from diphtheria, one from influenza, and one from diarrhœa and enteritis of a child under 2 years. In the three preceding weeks, deaths from whooping-cough were one, one, and 0; deaths from diphtheria one, 0 and 0; deaths from influenza 0, one, and 0, and deaths from diarrhœa and enteritis of children under two years, one, 6 and 0.

There were 6 deaths from pneumonia, comprising one from broncho-pneumonia, 2 from lobar pneumonia, and 3 from pneumonia (not otherwise defined).

Tuberculous disease caused 10 deaths (including 6 from pulmonary tuberculosis, 3 from tuberculous meningitis, and one from tuberculosis of the bladder), as against 15, 15, and 17 from all forms of tuberculous disease in the three weeks preceding.

Eight deaths were caused by cancer, 10 by organic diseases of the heart, and 5 by bronchitis.

Five deaths by violence were registered, of which one was caused by a train and two by gunshot wounds, and there was one case of suicide.

Among deaths of infants under one year old, one was due to whooping-cough, one to diphtheria, one to bronchitis, one to diarrhœa, and enteritis, one to congenital malformation, and 4 to congenital debility.

Seventeen of the deaths registered during the week, appertaining to the area, were those of children under 5 years of age, 13 being infants under one year, of whom 5 were under one month, and 24 deaths were those of persons aged 65 and upwards, of whom 14 were 70 years of age or over.

Of the 91 deaths recorded, 42 occurred in hospitals and other public institutions.

ENGLAND AND SCOTLAND.

The mortality among civilians for the week ended 29th July in 105 large English towns (including London, in which the rate was 9.0) was equal to an average annual death-rate of 9.2 per 1,000 of the estimated civil population.

The average death-rate for 16 principal towns of Scotland was 11.5 per 1,000 persons living, the rate for Glasgow being 11.1, and for Edinburgh 11.9.

CHAR-A-BANC ACCIDENTS.

TWENTY-SIX PERSONS INJURED.

Eleven Londoners were injured in a char-a-banc accident, near Sevenoaks, yesterday morning. A small char-a-banc, built to carry fourteen passengers, proceeding from London to Hastings, was about to descend a long and dangerous decline, known as Riverhill, when the cap of the hind wheel was found to have become detached, and the vehicle got out of control. The driver endeavoured to stop it by running it into a bank. Six times he struck the bank without the desired result; and then the back of the char-a-banc swerved round, and the vehicle turned over on its side at right angles across the road. All the passengers were thrown out, and were more or less injured.

Passing motorists picked them up, and conveyed them to Tonbridge Hospital, where their injuries, mainly consisting of cuts and sprains, were attended to. The driver received treatment at Sevenoaks Cottage Hospital. His wife and daughter, who were sitting in the front seat with him, were thrown through the wind-screen, the only injury in their case being cuts to his wife's face.

A Weymouth Correspondent telegraphs that Ridgeway Hill, near Weymouth, was the scene of a shocking char-a-banc accident, about half-past eleven o'clock on Saturday night. Employés of Portland Urban District Council were returning from an outing in two cars, when at a dangerous turning, half-way down the hill, the brakes of one car gave way, and it swerved into a wall and capsized.

The occupants, numbering fifteen, were pinned underneath the vehicle, and were extricated with the greatest difficulty, most of them being unconscious. Those considered most severely injured were conveyed to the Dorset County Hospital and the remainder to the Weymouth and District Hospital. Of five conveyed to the former institution only one had up to last evening recovered consciousness, and all are in a serious condition. Three of the ten taken to Weymouth Hospital were discharged yesterday morning.

MILAN STREET AMBUSH.

FASCISTI-COMMUNIST FEUD.

At Milan Fascisti elements raided the offices of the Socialist newspaper, Avanti, wrecked the editorial department and set fire to the newsprint store. The police intervened and a fight ensued, in which one Bersagliere and two Fascisti were killed.

In the Via Canonica shots were fired at a motor lorry filled with Fascisti. The latter returned the fire and two persons were killed and many wounded. Several arrests were made.

At Sala Braganza, near Parma, Communists killed a Fascisti carter and bound the corpse to the wheels of a cart and dragged it through the streets. In reprisal the Fascisti burned down the Socialistic-Communist Club, two men being killed and several injured.

The Council of Ministers has drawn up an appeal to the Nation to assist in the restoration of peace and order. The appeal concludes: "Let the Italian people unite to prevent the fruits of victory, won by so much sacrifice, from being squandered in sterile civil war and to prevent injury to the financial and economic well-being of the country and delay in the resumption of that active national life on which Italy is relying for the rebirth of her prosperity."

A semi-official message from Rome says that in consequence of the faction disorders the Government has given the military authorities control over the Provinces of Genoa and Milan, Ancona, Parma and Leghorn until complete order has been restored in them.

REFINED LARD "FUTURES."—LIVERPOOL, Saturday.—This market will be closed on Monday (Bank holiday). Chicago cables turned out disappointing, and the market here opened 3d. to 6d per cwt. lower, further declining under a preponderance of sellers, final rates showing a decline of 6d. to 9d. from last night. Fair quantities, however, changed hands, chiefly for September delivery, which sold at 67/- to 66/9, October 67/3 to 67/-, and January 61/-, with sellers of August at 66/-, and cash lard ex store at 66/3 per cwt.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday.—This market will be closed on Monday (Bank holiday). BACON—Live hogs at Chicago showed a partial improvement, but speculative products generally were easier, and arrivals of bacon at Liverpool again on only a moderate scale. There was no change in the attitude of bacon holders here, who continued to offer sparingly of all descriptions at late rates, though, with the near approach of the holidays, little disposition was shown to operate in any description. HAMS continued to be freely offered, with holders still anxious to reduce stocks, though demand was limited under the same influence as bacon, and prices unaltered. Shoulders quietly steady at late rates. Canadian, Irish and Continental sides scarce and firmly held. LARD on the spot was quiet, and, following lower c.i.f. quotations, prices gave way about 6d. per cwt., prime steam being at 67/6 to 68/- and American refined in boxes 67/- to 71/6 per cwt. CHEESE dull, and prices continued to rule in favour of buyers. BUTTER quiet, though late prices repeated for all descriptions. EGGS slow of sale at 14/- to 15/6 for Irish hen, 14/6 to 15/6 duck, and 11/6 to 12/- per 120 Continental.
